BIGGEST QUESTION • Hottest attraction network and agency-advertiser circles have had in months will be ratings to show what effect, if any, Dotto scandal has had on quiz show audiences. Both Trendex and ARB’s Arbitron expect to have post-Dotto figures this week that’ll furnish some clue to “after” phase of “before-and-after” comparisons.

Whatever outcome of investigation into charges Dotto and other quiz shows have been rigged, high FCC officials feel it may be disregarded blessing. They say future over quizzes points up need for rigid control over programming by networks lest broadcasting standards degenerate to those of carnival.

MUSIC SCORE • Though antitrust actions in music copyright field have long been topics of Washington discussion, there’s not likely to be any Dept. of Justice suit until two Congressional committees (Pastore in Senate, Roosevelt in House) issue formal reports on hearings held last spring. Department lawyers said to have completed study of Roosevelt testimony and are currently examining Pastore evidence and exhibits. Among angles studied are internal operations of ASCAP and network-station ownership of BMI stock.

How effective is barter? Evidence is out that International Latex (which entered what is considered biggest barter agreement with Matty Fox’s C & C Super—now Television Industries Inc.—for RKO feature product) now in addition is buying spot tv time on stations in selected markets to gain fixed positions in specific adjacencies. Not only is Latex doing it for its Playtex products, but divisional Isozine Pharmaceutical Corp., which was using barter time, now has combined this with “nonbarter.” It’s agency, Reach, McClinton.

STORER GAMBIT • With decision of Storer Broadcasting Co. to close down ch. 12 WVUE (TV) Wilmington-Philadelphia Sept. 13 (see page 10), unique legal question on multiple ownership may arise. Storer this week will file application with FCC for acquisition of ch. 6 WITI-TV Milwaukee for $4.5 million-plus [At Deadline, Aug. 11] which would give it its sixth v but only its fifth operating station since WVUE would be dark. WVUE holds no license—simply construction permit.

Meanwhile Storer is still seeking responsible purchaser for WVUE and would sell at $2 million, possibly even taking $1.8 million if all cash. If no acceptable buyer is found, then it is presumed that Storer will seek ruling whether it can retain ch. 12 as non-operating entity under multiple ownership rules or whether it must turn in station to comply with maximum of five vifts to an entity under rules.

BAKER'S SHOES • With resignation this week of Warren E. Baker as FCC general counsel to enter private practice in Washington (exclusive, page 56), FCC this week will consider elevation of a successor. Promotion from within is likely, with John J. FitzGerald, 49, chief, Office of Opinions & Review, and Edgar W. Holtz, 36, associate general counsel, front runners. Mr. FitzGerald, native of Seattle, has had quarter century of government experience and joined FCC in 1954. Mr. Holtz was born in Clarksburg, W. Va., and was assistant city solicitor of Cincinnati when he joined FCC in 1955.

During past fortnight, FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer has been undergoing briefing on international communications preparatory to his trip to Geneva Sept. 12 for telephone and telegraph conference of International Telecommunications Union, Geneva. Mr. Doerfer will be chairman of U. S. delegation and plans to return, with Mrs. Doerfer, about Nov. 10. Should conference run longer than planned, he will return by about end of November.

SPECTRUM STUDY • If Congressman Oren Harris (chairman of House Commerce Committee) has his way, action will be taken at next session of Congress on spectrum allocation study. Potter Resolutions (S1 Res. 106), which had passed Senate but was blocked in House after drastic amendment at last session, called for high-level five-man commission to undertake allocation study.

“The idea of having a Joint Congressional Committee undertake this study should be explored during the next Congress,” Chairman Harris stated. “I am convinced that a study of this kind will have to be made, whether by a Congressional committee, a Presidential commission or by some other body.”

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD • In midst of Goldfine-Adams investigation by House Oversight Committee, its chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) thought he had FCC Comr. Robert E. Lee nailed on hotel expenses paid by Boston industrialist. On double-check, beneficiary turned out to be Mr. Goldfine’s Negro chauffeur, Robert E. Eternity.

Apparently nothing’s set or sure yet, but Mutual Board Chairman-President Armand Hammer is described by reliable sources as negotiating to bring new money into network’s ownership, reportedly for expansion purposes.

INSTANT RATINGS • Signing of first client for Arbitron—American Research Bureau’s instant-ratings service [Lead Story, Aug. 25]—was reported Friday. It’s CBS-owned WCBS-TV New York. Station signed for Arbitron New York local service, which is scheduled to go commercial today (Sept. 1). Negotiations reported in progress with other New York stations. Agency subscribers to ARB service will get Arbitron daily reports as substitute for diary reports at no extra charge at present.

There is more than usual new-program interest being shown along Madison Ave. in new weekly half-hour “live” detective drama. 87th Precinct, being offered by ABC-TV. Program and film executives in all quarters are eyeing progress of unique series which will be pioneer videotape venture. Series is scheduled Sunday 9-9:30 p.m. Regular mobile truck tv cameras will pick up drama action at on-location scenes in New York’s 87th precinct. beam story sequences back to ABC-TV central control where videotaping will be done. REPORT FROM EUROPE • Mitchell Wolfson, president of Miami’s WTVJ (TV) and of chain of theatres in southeast, reports from Europe: “So far am convinced motion picture exhibitors of Europe have no big problems. TV programs are very poor in my opinion.” Mr. Wolfson is former president of Theatre Owners of America and active in its high councils.

Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss.), second in rank only to chairman on Commerce Committee and Legislative Oversight Subcommittee, is casting longing eyes toward Mississippi governorship. Friends are urging him to enter already overcrowded (four major aspirants) race, to be decided in fall of 1959. Indications are that it will not take much persuasion for Rep. Williams to make bid.

BLUE BONNET LOOKING • Standard Brands (Blue Bonnet margarine), N. Y., understood to be preparing 10-week spot radio campaign to break later this month in more than 100 markets, using up to 30 spots per week in certain markets. Agency: Ted Bates & Co., N. Y.

Thomas Leeming & Co. (Ben-Gay), N. Y., scheduled to start extensive spot radio effort shortly, using more than 100 markets throughout country for 26 weeks. Average of 20-25 spots weekly planned in each market. Wm. Esty Co., N. Y., is agency.
hardly a prospect for a new car....

Oh, don't get us wrong... Susie would dearly love to see a new 1959 model in the driveway—but it's Mom and Dad who control the purse-strings. And let's face it: Mom's average hectic day is being spent more and more with the soothing music of the standards and better pops... the kind of music she can always find on WFAA RADIO! And Dad? Well, he's still a newshound and sports fan—preferring network radio to keep him posted accurately and quickly. Here, too, more men turn to WFAA RADIO than any other!

PRODUCERS OFFER DOCUMENTS REFUTING CHARGES THAT ‘TWENTY-ONE’ WAS RIGGED

While afternoon newspapers flaunted headlined “exclusive” stories quoting ex-quiz champ Herbert Stempel on how he claimed to have been furnished answers on Twenty-One on NBC-TV, producers of that show Friday released copies of handwritten statement, dated March 7, 1957, and bearing Stempel signature, denying any such charges (early stories page 42).

March 1957 statement said: "I do hereby state and declare that I am now, or in the future concerned that Dan Enright, producer of Barry & Enright Productions, has never in any way shape nor form given, imparted or suggested to me any questions, or answers connected with the program '21.' Any questions or answers which I gave on the program were entirely my own and no aid nor assistance was rendered to me by Mr. Enright nor any of his staff. As a token of this statement and affirming it to be entirely true, I place my signature freely and without any mental or physical duress on the paper below."

Barry & Enright, producer of Twenty-One, said this statement was among documentary evidence which it presented to district attorney which "refutes the charges leveled against the Twenty-One program by Mr. Stempel." B&E said it was written by Herbert Stempel "voluntarily as an afterthought of reports that he had been making charges damaging to the integrity of Dan Enright and the Twenty-One program."

NBC said Thursday night that charges against Twenty-One "were made by Mr. Stempel, over a year ago," had been investigated by NBC at that time and found to be "utterly baseless and untrue."

Mr. Enright meanwhile issued following statement Friday after meeting with executive assistant district attorney, David Worgan, and assistant district attorney, Joseph Stone: "At our request, we have had a meeting with Mr. Worgan and Mr. Stone to whom we presented certain evidence concerning the statements about Twenty-One made by Herbert Stempel, a former contestant on the program, and subsequently printed in several newspapers. The other evidence is still being studied by the district attorney's office.

"Mr. Worgan and Mr. Stone have been completely cooperative in this matter and have assured us that they will make every effort to organize and digest the material we have given them, at which time they will issue a statement. At that time, with their permission, we will release to the press further portions of this material which we consider to be of public interest. I am confident that when the full story is released, the victims of this unfortunate situation will be completely exonerated, and the American public will know, after seeing all the facts, where to place the blame for this mess."

Proof has been given D. A. "there is absolutely nothing wrong" with Twenty-One. Lawrence McKay, NBC counsel, said late Friday. He said Mr. Enright was meeting at time with D. A., submitting evidence rebutting charges. He called documents "certain proof" and added, "Undoubtedly the district attorney will have something to say after they investigate it." He is member of law firm of Cahill, Gordon, Reindel & Ohl, NBC's attorneys.

WMGM Named in Quiz Suit

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Reid, Brooklyn, late Friday affirmed they have pending in New York Supreme Court suit to examine records of WMGM New York contest Name It and Claim It in which $1,300-prize winner is "a woman in Jersey." Mr. Reid said he and wife submitted correct answer on 15th Vice President of U. S. but that WMGM said it never received answer card. In 1957, Mr. Reid said, he accepted "$600 compromise" in similar contest dispute with WMGM. Station officials were not available for comment.

Thomas to Address NAB Session

William H. Thomas, radio-tv director of Fitzgerald Adv. Agency, New Orleans, will address a luncheon meeting at opening NAB Fall Conference to be held Sept. 18-19 at Buena Vista Hotel, Biloxi, Miss. Series of conferences will wind up Oct. 27-28 in Washington, D. C.

SPACE CHANNELS

Andrew J. Haley, Washington radio-aid attorney and space-law expert, has called for radio command channels so larger and larger space vehicles may be guided to safe landings on earth or destroyed. Mr. Haley made plea at space-law conference at International Astronautical Society Convention in Holland. Mr. Haley is president of IAS. "As the vehicles grow larger and larger, he said, "the metal scattered in the death plunge [when they disintegrate on reentering the earth's atmosphere] will become more and more dangerous." Earlier in week Mr. Haley and Charles S. Rhyne, Washington attorney and president of American Bar Assn., were among five recipients of Grotrius medal for merit in international law, presented in Munich, Germany.
Storer Asks Permit to Close WVUE (TV) But Still Seeks Buyer

Storer Broadcasting Co. Friday announced it was asking FCC for permission to close down ch. 12 WVUE (TV) Wilmington, Del., on Sept. 13, but retain permit. Company said it was still seeking purchaser for independent Wilmington-Philadelphia outlet, and that "active" negotiations are underway with two or three prospective buyers.

In order to consummate $4.4 million purchase of ch. 6 WTTI-TV Milwaukee [at Deadline, Aug. 11], Storer must sell one of its currently owned five vhf stations in order to widen within FCC limit of five vhf stations to single owner. In addition to Wilmington, Storer owns vhf stations in Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland and Atlanta.

Milwaukee purchase application, seeking FCC approval, is due to be filed this week, it was learned.

Lee B. Wailes, Storer executive vice president, said considerable interest has been evidenced in purchase of WVUE but no acceptable offers have been received thus far.

McGannon Appoints Mikita To New WBC Controller Post

Joseph K. Mikita, named to new post of controller for Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., WBC President Donald H. McGannon is announcing today (Sept. 1). Mr. Mikita will supervise company accounting and financial activities. He was with Capital Cities Television Corp. as comptroller in 1955-57 and as treasurer in 1957-58. He also was in charge of constructing its WTNJ (TV) Vail Mills (Albany), N.Y., ch. 10 operation and that of satellite WCDB on ch. 29 at Hagarman, N.Y.

Explaining creation of controller post, President McGannon said: "The competitive nature of the broadcasting industry and the expansion of WBC has created need for a wider variety of services. Conditions dictate that business continually examine the growth of the cost factor to effect the optimum in broadcasting service."

Whitney Buys Newspaper Control

With acquisition of working control of New York Herald-Tribune and its Paris edition by John Hay Whitney, Corinthian group of radio-tv stations becomes newspaper-owned. Mr. Whitney is senior member of J. H. Whitney & Co., investment firm which owns WISH-AM-TV Indianapolis, WANE-AM-TV Fort Wayne, both Indiana; KOTV (TV) Tulsa, Okla., and 90% of KGUL-TV Houston. Mr. Whitney, U.S. Ambassador to Britain and brother-in-law of CBS Inc. Chairman William Paley, took over financially-ailing Herald-Tribune from Ogden Reid and family. Earlier in year he bought Parade magazine, Sunday newspaper supplement. Mr. Reid remains as chief executive officer until Mr. Whitney can assume personal command. Chief broadcast executive in Whitney firm is C. Wrede Petersmeyer.

In the late 1950s, the broadcast industry was undergoing significant changes. Companies like Storer Broadcasting were actively seeking new opportunities to expand their reach, often through purchases of radio and television stations. The passage of the Federal Communications Commission's (FCC) policies allowed for the wider ownership of multiple stations, which was a marked shift from previous regulations. The document highlights a variety of corporate and personal developments in the industry, including the sale of stations, the appointment of new executives, and the diversification of broadcasting companies. These changes reflect the industry's growth and the increasing competition for market share.

CONCENTRATION

This is not another quiz—it’s a “contest.” The difference may be negligible, but then so is the show.

Two contestants (of either sex) compete by calling pairs of numbers from 1 to 30, which then appear on three-sided wedges on a board. Wedge 1 or 30 is turned as it is called (much like the secret revolving walls in old Bela Lugosi movies) to reveal the picture of a prize. If a contestant matches two pictures, he is credited with the prize, and the third side of the wedge is spun into place to reveal part of a master puzzle-picture, which must be solved by the contestant to keep his prize.

Concentration might be called an errant ESP (now crossed over into tv limbo). If, however, a contestant does not “sense” which pictures match, he may resort to mere memory. He may keep track of numbers called and their corresponding pictures (much like remembering tricks in bridge), and when his competitor misses and it is his turn again, he quickly calls 5 and 14 which he knows to be power-mowers.

On the Aug. 26 show, the little lady from New Jersey (after divining the master puzzle to be “You Got To Accentuate the Positive”) was informed, to the accompaniment of Tiomkin-type music, that she had won a bottle of salad dressing and one herring. After a brief but outraged pause, she elected to take the alternate prize of $100. The loser (a young man from New York who was the producer of a three-member opera troupe) walked away with an all-expenses paid trip for two to Bermuda. It should be explained that he had won earlier by defeating a nice old lady from Connecticut, who did not receive anything.

Concentration may not be the most gripping show on pre-noon television, but it is certainly the most economical.

Production costs: Approximately $25,000 per week.

KRAFT MYSTERY THEATRE

From the opening scene of the new garden digging a hole (for his employer?) to the closing revelation (no, it wasn’t the butler), the Aug. 20 Kraft production, “We Haven’t Seen Her Lately,” was excellent. It fulfilled each word of the show title for it had mystery, theatre and those enticing Kraft commercials in color.

Fog and rain were used effectively to evoke the proper atmosphere for this English mystery about an eccentric old lady who is feared murdered, is found safe and sound, and then, by gad, is found murdered. The direction never flagged as first one and then another suspect was brought into focus.

Each character was sharply and economically drawn by the cast (which sounded authentically British) from Mary Finney as Aunt Violet to Patrick Horgan as Bertie.

May there indeed always be an England and, for entertainment seekers, an English mystery.

Production costs: Approximately $50,000. Sponsored on NBC-TV Wednesday, 9-10 p.m. EDT; by Kraft Foods Co. through J. Walter Thompson Co.

Producer: Alex March; director: Paul Bogart; “We Haven’t Seen Her Lately” written by Sumner Locke Elliot and based on novel by E. X. Serras.

About Price Cutting

EDITOR:
Having read the July 14 MONDAY MEMO by Rolfo Hunter, with whom I heartily agree, it is not unrelated to a similar situation in our motion picture equipment sales and rental business.

Our field services a limited number of professional motion picture producers. We spend our time and money to develop new equipment for this relatively small industry and some discount-happy dreamer copies our items and sells them below our established fair price, to attract attention to himself as a bargain house. The shoppers who are buying price and not quality invariably get caught.

The rental field is also limited and we feel that we are entitled to a fair return for our investment in the cameras and sound and lighting equipment, etc., which we must keep readily available and serviced at all times. Occasionally the producer's needs for short period rentals require more from us in the way of service than we could possibly realize from the rental income. Here again the bargain boys start a price war which if allowed to continue, will eliminate the ability to provide a dependable rental service to the producer on a short-term basis. Without this service the producer will find himself in difficulty, and while faced with such a problem in his industry, his support of the price-cutter in our field may eventually effect his business. Here's one for action!

Rating Services

EDITOR:
I believe that this week we have reached the ultimate in pitches from rating services.
First there was an offer from [one rating service] to “do” a Salem survey for $100.
Today there is an offer from [another] to do one for $80.
They promise 1,800 completed calls be-	ween 6 a.m. and 8 p.m. This would be 360 completed calls per day. Assume 25% sets in use. This would be 90 calls to radio listeners. Divide 90 calls by 14 hours and we have an attempt to survey a mark t with 6 calls per hour! With some 12 to 14 good signals in this market this would leave half the stations with no audience at all! This, we all agree, is impossible.
We have determined that rating services are sinking to a new low to get business, but this type of pitch with no attention to any statistical tolerance is a bare-faced attempt to make the radio business as “hungry” as that of the rating services them-

This week in New York with ARBITRON

ARB introduces a new era in television research... instantaneous electronic audience measurement around the clock, every day of the year. ARBITRON daily reports are now being issued on a regular full-sample basis in New York and will be shortly available in Los Angeles, Chicago, and a multi-city network. For other areas requiring complete research coverage of all programs instantaneously every minute of every day, it represents the ultimate measurement tool. ARBITRON is a complete departure from other techniques... a tremendous breakthrough that reflects where research—television and otherwise—may be taking industry tomorrow. ARB introduces it today.
A newspaper job, or any other kind of job, was hard to get in the depression summer of 1933 when Jack Burnett received his journalism degree at U. of Minnesota. Through a mutual friend, however, he was hired by Standard Oil of Indiana as an advertising representative working out of LaCrosse, Wis.

While checking up on the way service stations handled point-of-sale material he developed an interest in radio and started working part time as a copywriter and announcer. He's been in broadcasting ever since and now is owner of KULA Honolulu.

"The copy was pretty fair but the announcing was awful," he said in recalling the Wisconsin experience. Even worse was the Wisconsin weather, he decided after a month of below-zero temperatures in the winter of 1935-36. When the snows melted, Jack Burnett said goodbye to his sweetheart, Helen McCormick, and drove to California. He arrived in San Francisco with the car and $12. KROW Oakland took him on before the $12 had been spent and he sold time on a straight commission basis.

After a successful year of selling he sent to LaCrosse for Miss McCormick and they were married at Carson City, Nev., in December 1938. Jack changed jobs, too, moving to KGVO Missoula, Mont., as sales manager for A. J. Mosby whom he had met when both were in San Francisco area radio. A year later he signed on as sales manager of KUTA Salt Lake City. In 1947 the Salt Lake City group operating Intermountain Network and KULA Honolulu offered him a job as general manager of the Hawaiian outlet. This offered an interesting assignment and a chance to move his daughter, Jacqueline, out of the high, dry climate to which she was allergic. The severe skin allergy disappeared within weeks after the move to another climate.

During his decade at KULA the property had changed hands twice, and Mr. Burnett had acquired a minority holding. At the recent NAB convention he interested Henry J. Kaiser in buying the tv property, also negotiating an agreement to get the remaining 75% of KULA Radio himself. KULA-TV, now a Kaiser property, has been changed to KHVN-TV.

The job of putting KULA-TV on the air wasn't easy in 1954 since only one staff member had any tv experience. Jack sent his chief engineer to the mainland on a six-month inspection trip and together they planned the entire tv operation. Initial tv losses, he recalled, were much below those of the two predecessor tv stations in the city despite the oft-heard prediction the market would not support three video outlets. Within three months KULA-TV was in the black.

Jack Averill Burnett was born June 14, 1910, in Bethlehem, Pa. On his mother's side were Moravian ancestors who had founded the town. He attended a Moravian school until the family moved to St. Paul in 1920. He went to St. Thomas College in St. Paul three years, playing football under Joe St. Ours and winning Mules of Notre Dame, moving to U. of Minnesota for his last year of college.

After more than a decade in Honolulu he is a confirmed Hawaiian. He would like to broaden his business interests, however, and has an application for a radio station in Salt Lake City. He learned station operation the hard way. When he first went to Honolulu he found the radio station overstaffed and located in large, costly quarters. Rumors of a cutback had been spread and the entire sales force resigned. He moved the station into a quonset hut attached to the transmitter building and for a time served as a one-man sales staff in a strange market. He quickly learned that Honolulu is a modern market and running a radio station there was no different from the mainland.

Jack Burnett is a lover of the outdoors life in the Hawaiians. He works out every day at the Pacific Club in Honolulu, usually paddle tennis, volley ball or some similar game. He enjoys surfing and sailing, and is a member of the famed Outrigger Canoe Club. He was instrumental in forming the Hawaiian Assn. of Radio & Television Broadcasters, was its first president and served another term at a later date. He is a member of the Executive Club, Honolulu Media Assn. and Honolulu Advertising Club. Community activities include Red Cross, Boy Scouts and Community Chest.

As a station operator he feels public service programming should be unique and entertaining. He likes to match tv ratings with the NBC and CBS competition in this market where the Caucasian population is less than 25% of the total. Some day, he hopes, he will own a group of radio stations on the mainland and maintain KULA as headquarters.

Jack Burnett likes to recall that four mainland station managers once worked at KULA—Jock Fearnhead, WINS New York; Irving Phillips, KDAY Los Angeles; Hugh La Rue, KTVR (TV) Denver and Charles Christian, KRUX Phoenix.

the calories in the cereal and milk serving are well balanced and low in fat

In the light of the modern trend toward less fat in the diet and for quick and lasting energy foods, the calories in the cereal and milk serving merit consideration. Both the cereal and the milk contribute well-balanced nourishment.

This serving provides quick and lasting energy, is low in fat, and is a good source of many nutrients as shown in the table below. It furnishes about 10 per cent of the daily needs of protein, important B vitamins, and essential minerals. Served with nonfat milk, the fat content is very low.

TV GETS A BOOST FOR A BOOM IN '59

McCann-Erickson sees record business year, cites TV C-P-M economies

McCann-Erickson, an influential agency that is watched carefully by U. S. advertising executives, has put evening TV's cost-per-thousand track record on the line. Says M-E:

- Nighttime TV is the only major medium to lower its C-P-M circulation in the past eight years. The agency reports evening network TV's C-P-M declined 18% since 1950 and spot TV reduced its C-P-M 19%. All other media's C-P-M rose during the years.

The finding, while it may not be "news" to TV salesmen, is significant on these accounts:

- McCann-Erickson is the agency that led all others last year in TV billing. In television alone, M-E spent $91 million of its clients' money. Another $12 million was placed in radio.

- The McCann-Erickson emphasis on this lowered cost-per-thousand in effect helps to bolster TV advocates who earlier this year encountered and rebutted a sudden blast by agency executives that TV's values were diminishing [LEAD STORY, Jan. 13; ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Feb. 19].

- There is added weight to this pro-TV "look" of M-E since the finding is contained in a specially-prepared report to advertisers advising them to tune-up now with "modern marketing practices" in anticipation of business prospering next year.

- The brief discussion of media does not credit any broadcast industry-supported research for the TV statistics. The media data was prepared by the agency's own research division.

The newly-published McCann-Erickson report is entitled "The Turning of the Tide," a 31-page booklet published by Marketing Planning Corp., an M-E affiliate, and being given wide distribution in advertising channels.

The report is not devoted to any one advertising medium per se, nor does it deal only with advertising. In essence it is a documented report on the nation's economy with a strong recommendation for immediate marketing appraisals by U. S. business and industry. The theme: There will be a bigger market for goods next year than ever before; the companies which plan now will be in a better position to gain a greater share.

The booklet opens with this flat prediction: "The most prosperous year in American history lies just ahead—1959. We're on the way right now in an upswing that will carry us strongly and steadily toward new records in sales, production and income."

From that point on, statistics document the comeback of the U. S. economy. The report points to the major barometers of gross national product, industrial production, non-agricultural employment and personal income, showing statistically how these areas are on the rise once more. It also presents information on inventory liquidation, housing starts, defense spending, retail sales of durable goods and plant and equipment spending.

The report, which bases its analyses and conclusions on studies made by the Marketing Planning Corp., is enthusiastic in its optimism, predicting: American people will have more money to spend, and will spend more, next year than in any previous year; 1959 will continue to be a buyer's market but it will be the first buyer's market of any non-recession year since the war. The gross national product, says the report, will exceed all records.

The report notes: "This is a prospect as certain as the judgment of competent analysts can determine it. The question to be decided in 1959 is what producers will capture what shares of the market."

The upward trend of advertising expenditures in recent years indicates "the greater role of marketing in the success of any company," the agency report emphasizes.

As an aid to budget planners "through '59," the agency proceeds to "look back at advertising volume and costs" in a chapter entitled "How Much Seed Money for Your '59 Business?" Since 1950, the agency asserts, "gross national product has increased by 50% and total advertising expenditures by 78%. The spending of the 100 leading advertisers has climbed . . . by 25%.

The report readily admits that one factor in this spectacular climb is inflation. "The communications industry, like all others, must pay higher prices for the components of its services." Newsprint is up about 34% since 1950; labor costs are up (in TV, wages of stagehands rose 18% in the period, technicians, 38%). Attention is given to TV programming which M-E figures has gone up 375% for half-hour evening shows "represented by the increasing use of world-famous talent, but an important factor is the higher cost of all entertainment talent."

From high costs of staging, M-E moves into rates and circulation:

"Nevertheless, the increase in cost-per-thousand circulation of the major media has averaged less than these component increases; in fact, television’s cost per thousand has declined. At the same time, basic rates of media have advanced (with the exception of radio).

“They reflect, in part, higher cost per thousand, but also considerable improvement in product: Magazines have vastly expanded their use of color illustration; newspapers have added many new features; television station management has given its nationwide free-admission audiences increasingly expensive entertainment.

“A third factor is substantial growth of coverage. The most obvious example: the average evening television program reached slightly more than 1 million homes in 1950; today it goes to more than 7 million. A mass weekly’s circulation during the same period climbed from about 4 million to some 5½ million.

The report moves on to show how the advertiser’s “cost of living” has gone up, reflecting increased basic costs for time and space, but at the same time, the report notes that the most highly competitive industries have spent greater proportions of their budgets “in the more rapidly growing media—notably, in television” and as a result, show the “fastest-rising expenditures.” Nonetheless, the report asserts, the “more basic reason” for heavier spending by national advertisers is that “advertising has more to do.” It must cover larger and fast-shifting markets; assume more work of direct consumer selling; supply in self-service outlets the “product communications” formerly provided by sales clerks; promote swelling outflow of new products and additions; help the advertiser to be heard as competition pushes advertising volume to a “higher decibel-level.”

The report explores trends in sales, profits and advertising expenditures of three groups among 100 leading advertisers since 1950. Groups are identified as “rapid-growth,” “medium-growth” and “less-rapid growth.” The decreases in “medium-growth” are marked enough, say McCann-Erickson, “to have pursued virtually all of the 100 leading advertisers to increase their budgets in relation to sales in each of the last seven years.”

BANKS NOTE: PUT YOUR DOLLARS IN TV

TvB study points up successes of 27 such firms in visual medium

A series of case histories pointing up television’s role in bank and other financial advertising was released last week by the Television Bureau of Advertising.

A total of 27 success stories included in the TvB packet detail not only why and how banks and other financial institutions use tv, but with what results.

“Commercial banks, mutual savings banks and savings and loan associations are using tv as a personalized selling force,” said TvB President Norman E. Cash, “because it is their specific and individual needs and because their best customers are television’s best customers.”

The TvB packet, being distributed to bureau members, also contains a breakdown showing how 59 commercial and mutual savings banks used television in a “typical week” in 19 markets. Based on Broadcast Advertisers Reports data, this breakdown showed 247 spot announcements and 68 programs used by the 59 firms. Of the spot announcements, most (153) were scheduled between 6 and 10:30 p.m., 48 were during the previous noon hour, 13 were after 10:30 p.m., and 13 were in the morning. The program sponsorships included 43 in the 6-10:30 p.m. time, 23 after 10:30 p.m., two in the afternoon and none in morning hours.

The TvB roundup was compiled and documented by Murray Gross, assistant director of sales promotion. Following are condensations of the success stories:

TWIN CITY FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN ASSN., Minneapolis-St. Paul.—Put 45% of its annual budget into tv ($225,000 out of $500,000, and radio gets 33%), using news, weather, sports and special events on KSTP-TV, WCCO-TV and WTCN-TV, day and night. On tv entry in 1949, Twin City’s resources were $77 million. Today they are $290 million. Says President Roy W. Larsen: “Television as an advertising medium has taken on added importance year after year since our entry eight years ago,” Agency for Twin City: Vance, Pidgeon & Assoc.

BANK OF THE SOUTHWEST, Houston.—Putting 19% or $45,428 of its budget into television (up 30% from 1957), using 10-second ID’s on KGGU-TV, KPRC-TV and KTRK-TV, two-five minute segments of John Daly ABC-TV newscast and various special events including election coverage. Deposits up $24 million annually in last 24 months. Says William B. Black Jr., advertising director and vice president: “We depend heavily upon television . . . we feel that television has contributed greatly to the rate of growth of Bank of the Southwest and we plan to use it even more in the future.” Agency: Aylin Adv.

MONTPELIER NATIONAL BANK, Montpelier, Vt.—Uses one announcement before the 6:45 p.m. Friday news on WCAX-TV Burlington, Vt. (moves to 11:20 p.m. during summer). This represents 33% of the bank’s budget. President L. B. Howe reports: “In December 1956, we began advertising on WCAX-TV and our first promotion was for new Christmas Club accounts . . . The department gained 67% over the preceding year.” For most of 1957, the campaign was for new savings accounts and Mr. Howe says that in 11 months “we opened 716 new accounts, during which period 80% of these people made at least two deposits.” He concludes: “ . . . No other advertising has produced such tangible results as television . . .”

OLMSTEAD SAVINGS & LOAN ASSN., Rochester, Minn.—Putting 30% of its budget into television, more than twice the amount spent in television in its initial use in 1954; now uses three 10-minute noon-time newscasts a week on KROC-TV. The noon-time usage is a switch from evening sponsorships, made to reach “a new audience.” In four tv years the firm’s resources have grown from $7 million to $15.5 million. E. Gilk, secretary-treasurer, says “Television has opened an entirely new area of operations for us. Newspapers, radio and direct mail brought business primarily in savings accounts and loans. From the time we started to use television, the medium began to bring in new savings accounts from a radius of 150 miles.”

THORP LOAN & THRIFT CO. AND OLMSTED COUNTY BANK & TRUST CO., Rochester, Minn.—Both got into tv through one man, John Chisholm. As vice president of Thorp Loan, he bought a weekly minute in late-night movies in 1954, then on basis of results increased to four announcements a week. Two years later, he became vice president of Olmsted County Bank & Trust and one of his first acts was to launch a tv campaign. Since then the bank’s resources have virtually tripled and it is putting 75% of its budget into Big Story each week on KROC-TV. Thorp Loan has maintained a steady schedule with 70% of its budget in television, now has six offices as against one pre-tv. Moreover its parent company has become interested in television, is now an important user in such markets as Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Madison, Green Bay and Wausau, Wis. Says Thorp vice president Robert Conway: “Television is the strongest advertising medium that our organization has ever used.”

HALF DOLLAR TRUST & SAVINGS BANK, Wheeling, W. Va.—Uses five-minute newscast on WTRF-TV at 8:25 a.m. Fridays, within NBC Today program, plus evening spot schedule. Newscast features Bank Vice President Hank Dwinell, known as “Hank from the Bank.” Executive Vice President John J. Nash says, “We have been using this expression [Hank at the Bank] for a number of years. Now that we are on tv everybody knows Hank personally. We have considered this . . . promotion a highly successful one and since we started to use it on tv, it is a great deal more effective than it has ever been before.” Officials describe their business increase as “healthy.”

OHIO FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN ASSN., Columbus, Ohio.—With television as its major selling force, firm posted 494% increase in savings accounts and 491% increase in regular loans (ending June 30). From January 1950 and January 1958. Has opened four branch offices and plans a fifth. Heavy user of newspapers before entering tv, firm now puts 75 to 80% of its budget into WBNS-TV. Has used weekly half-hour outdoor sports program since 1950. Says President A. R. Allen: "People constantly volunteer that they view our program and see our tv commercials. We get these comments from people who live 50 to 60 miles away, where we've gotten some of our biggest accounts . . ."

ALBANY SAVINGS BANK, Albany, N. Y.—Started on WRGB (TV) Schenectady in January 1952 with two 10-second announcements a week, now puts almost one-third of its budget into tv with half-hour local 1 live Thursday nights on WRGB. President James Davie says "Television has played a major role in Albany Savings' growth. In the six years [the firm] has used television, deposits have increased 37% . . ." Agency is Woodward, Voss & Havener.

ONONDAGA COUNTY SAVINGS BANK, Syracuse, N. Y.—Has used television seven years, now gives it 25% of its budget via 30 to 40 10- and 20-second announcements a week, year round, on WHEN-TV; plus, periodically, announcements on another station. In 1956, it commissioned a survey, which showed a more vivid lasting impression with the public than all other media. Dick Devesty, advertising manager, calls tv "The foundation of our advertising program. We lean on it very heavily for identification, for publicizing our interest rates and for merchandising our various services. We do this because we get greater impact—more immediate impact—from television than from any other medium."

GREATER LOUISVILLE FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN ASSN., Louisville, Ky.—Started in tv in November 1948 on WAVE-TV, has increased tv usage steadily; now puts 60% of its budget into television, using WHAS-TV as well as WAVE-TV. Before television, its total budget was $30,000; now it's $250,000 (radio and newspapers get 20% each). Now sponsors weathercasts, weatherspots, 10-minute newscasts each night, two spots in Today, and participation in local shows. Resources have grown $65.4 million to current total of more than $100 million since 1950. Executive Vice President Gustav Flexner says "There's no question but that we attribute a great portion of our growth to television advertising. So many advertisers make the mistake of starting a campaign and not sticking with it for a long period of time. Year-round advertising consistency in television is most important."

EVERGLADES FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN ASSN., Belle Glade, Fla.—Boosted its resources more than a quarter of a million dollars in the first five months after it entered tv in February 1956 with a five-minute early-evening telecast on WPTV (TV) West Palm Beach twice a week. Now the firm sponsors quarter-hour newscasts four evenings a week and half of its budget is in television, which it uses year-round. Says Richard A. Posten, assistant to the president: "Television is the best medium for this type of organization to use because you reach about everybody. And your sales messages reach more people through television than any other medium at a lower cost per sales call."

PEOPLES SAVINGS & LOAN ASSN., Charlotte, N. C.—New bank, it started in tv with a half-hour campaign on WSOC-TV in January this year, after using various other media to try to get itself established. CONNECTICUT BANK & TRUST CO., Hartford, Conn.—Buys two five-minute and three 10-minute news shows weekly on WHCT (TV) and picks up sponsorship of annual Insurance City Open Golf Tournament. Has been in tv for five years. Says Assistant Public Relations Director Alfred F. Bubas, "Our assets have matured our 25 offices throughout Connecticut with radio or newsletters requires the costly use of many stations or papers. But with television we cover most of our offices with a single buy."

THIS newspaper delivery girl was welcomed at Cunningham & Walsh, New York, where Jim Ducey, assistant media supervisor at the agency, is handed the Aug. 21 edition of the New York Times. Reason: WBNS-TV Columbus, Ohio, used 300 lines in the Times to tell New York's ad row about the station's Sneak Preview (9:30-11:30 a.m.) feature film series for the housewife. To emphasize its point and assure itself of readership, the station sent around copies of the paper and an attention-getter—Dorothy Nixon, who is WBNS-TV—to various New York agencies.

CROCKER-ANGIO NATIONAL BANK, San Francisco.—Uses seven 20-second announcements a week between 6:15 and 10:25 p.m. on KGO-TV, KVPIX (TV) and KRON-TV, plus an average of two to three 20-second announcements in Class A and AA periods in nine other northern California markets. Started in tv in 1956, has since become year-round user. Bank chose tv as the most dramatic medium. Robert Brissacher of Cunningham & Walsh, bank's agency, says almost 50% of budget is in tv.

MINNEAPOLIS SAVINGS & LOAN ASSN., Minneapolis-St. Paul.—First tv investment, quarter-hour news show thrice weekly on KSTP-TV in 1951, brought immediate results, led to addition of 10-minute sports shows three times a week starting in 1952, with second expansion in 1957 via late evening sports programs on WCCO-TV three nights a week. Says Mike Bolin of Bolin-Smith Agency: "Television has further brought [the client] closer to the top. Television has lent greater prestige to the company than would have been possible without it."

PHILADELPHIA SAVINGS FUND SOCIETY, Philadelphia.—Has used tv for eight years, increasing usage each year. Currently has 10-minute Saturday night newscast on WCAU-TV, three minute participations a week on late-night movies on WFIL-TV and 10-20 second station breaks in day and night hours on WRCV-TV. Edmund H. Rogers of Gray & Rogers, agency, says: "On all continuing research which we make at regular intervals, results show that the remembrance factor, both as to name and services, is far greater for television than for any other medium. . . . Our client is extremely well pleased."

VALLEY NATIONAL BANK, Phoenix, Tucson and Yuma, Arizona.—Biggest banking institution in eight-state Rocky Mountain area, firm launched first tv campaign eight years ago, now sets aside 25% of its budget for television and uses announce- ment campaigns on all eight Arizona tv stations. It spends up to $150 per station, usually buying two nighttime Class A spots on each. Says M. G. Reade, advertising director: "Our current expenditure is the highest ever in television. Perhaps that best illustrates our appraisal of the medium . . . for banks."

FIRST NATIONAL CITY BANK OF NEW YORK.—In seventh straight year in tv, bank currently sponsors 10-minute newscast at 11 p.m. six nights a week on WRCB-TV and five-minute weather and sports show on WCBS-TV one night a week, with option to increase when time opens up. Stroefr says program boosts employe morale and has been "unusually successful in building new business and good will."

About 20% of its budget is in tv. Firm's resources have doubled since tv entry, reaching $236 million. Rudy Orisek, president of RMO & Assoc., Talman agency, says: "Tv has made a definite contribution to our growth, we intend to remain in the medium using information programs to maintain a position in which an intelligent viewing audience will continue to know about us."

FIRST NATIONAL BANK, Portland, Ore.—Has used tv consistently for seven years on-year-around basis. When it buys other schedules, it diverts some spot money. This fall it will co-sponsor U. of Oregon and Oregon State football coverage and in January expects to sponsor a half-hour film. —Bill Wilson of Cole & Weber, agency, says: "From about 15% four years ago, tv has grown to 32%, an amount approximately equal to the budget for newspapers. . . . We're convinced that consistent television advertising has been of great value in the rapid growth of First National."

Foreman Moves Up at BBDO To Head All Creative Services

Appointment of Robert L. Foreman, executive vice president in charge of the plans board of BBDO, New York, as head of all creative services at the agency was announced last week by Charles H. Brower, president. He will direct copy, art, television, radio and public relations activities for BBDO.

Mr. Foreman joined BBDO 19 years ago and in 1948, at the age of 32, became the agency's youngest vice president. He was in charge of the radio writing department at that time. Subsequently, he was named head of the radio and television department, including both radio and tv copy and art. Mr. Foreman was elected to the agency's board of directors in February 1955 and was promoted to executive vice president in charge of the agency plans board in February 1957. He is the author of An Ad Man Ad-Libs on Tv, published in 1957 by Hastings House and The Hot Half Hour, a novel with a broadcast industry setting, which will be published late this month by Criterion Books Inc.

Bishop Enters Barter, To Use 200 Tv Stations

In what is expected to be the largest tv spot campaign in history, Hazel Bishop Inc., New York, plans to extend its barter effort to more than 5,000 spots per week on approximately 200 stations by Sept. 15.

Though spokesmen declined to place a money figure on the amount of the campaign, one source said that eventually it is expected to overshadow the International Latex Corp. barter transaction, reported to amount to $20 million over a five-year period. As with International Latex, Television Industries Inc., New York (formerly C&C Television) will give stations the rights to the KKO feature film library, other features and serials in return for spot time. This time is assigned to Hazel Bishop.

The spot tv campaign for Bishop, a spokesman said, began Aug. 1 with 103 stations signed for an average of 28 spots per week. It will build up to more than 200 spots by Sept. 1 and rise to 300 spots per week. Hazel Bishop officials declined to give other details at this time but pointed out that although the campaign is for a minimum of one year, it is expected to extend to five years or more.

Since Television Industries Inc. acquired the controlling interest in Hazel Bishop last May, it has been known that the company was destined for a spot tv barter spree. This will be the first year that Hazel Bishop will be missing from network television in more than seven years. Since 1950, the company has invested more than $40 million in network time.

The spot tv campaign will be in nighttime periods only, scattered throughout from 6 p.m. to sign-off. More than 25,000 spots between Oct. 1 and Dec. 25 will be devoted to Hazel Bishop's new "Ultra-Matic" compact, but other products to be advertised will be the company's nail polish, lipstick and hair spray. The agency is Raymond Spector Inc., New York.

Coinciding with the upsurge in barter tv for Bishop, the company last week announced the appointments of Alfred Thomas Prange as director of HB radio and television activities and of Matthew Ruffle as a vice president, functioning in the area of general sales management and administration.

For the past two years, Mr. Prange filed a similar post with the International Latex Corp. and earlier had been with the television departments of Cunningham & Walsh and Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample in both New York. Mr. Ruffle formerly was director of marketing for Richard Hudson, New York.
SOUND: Sshh-sh! Chug! Chug! Chug! Chug! Chug! Chug-a-chugga-chugga! Toot! Toot!

GIRL (frustrated): Mr. Conductor, when do we get to Good & Plentyville?

BOY: 10 more minutes to Good & Plentyville!

GIRL (as boy changes back to engineer): I'm hungry. Good & Plenty (sighs). Good & Plenty (frustrated). I'm hungry! Plenty! Plenty good!

BOY (as vendor): Newspapers, magazines, candy, getcha deee-licious Good & Plenty!

GIRL (frustrated): Oh, Mr. Engineer. Can you... (mumble, mumble)

BOY (indignant): Well, madam! Do you want to ruin my engine?

GIRL: Oh, Charlie, there'll be plenty left for your old engine!

PREVIEW

THE SOUND THEY LOVE TO TASTE

Youngsters like Quaker City Chocolate & Confectionery Co.'s Good & Plenty candy-covered licorice for two reasons: it tastes good and besides, if handled right, it makes the most delicious-sounding locomotive sounds you've ever heard. Capitalizing on both, Quaker City, which places its entire budget in tv intermittently, approved this 60-second spot prepared jointly by its agency Adrian Bauer and Alan Tripp Inc., Philadelphia, and UPA Pictures Inc., Burbank-New York.

This month it begins a 26-week run on the following stations and programs: WPIX (TV) New York's Three Stooges and Popeye; WABC (TV) New York's Looney Tunes, WABC-TV New York's American Bandstand (ABC-TV); WFIL-TV Philadelphia's Sally Starr Theatre and Bandstand; WTTG (TV) Washington's Popeye; KTLA (TV) Los Angeles' Popeye; KDKA-TV Pittsburgh's The Big Adventure; WNHC-TV New Haven's Popeye; WXYZ-TV Detroit's Curtain Time and Bandstand; CKLW-TV Detroit-Windsor's Looney Tunes, KYW-TV Cleveland's Popeye; WHDH-TV Boston's Brave Eagle and Bandstand, and WGN-TV Chicago's Bugs Bunny.

Quaker City, an exclusive tv advertiser for seven years, thus enters phase four in its tv strategy. In 1951, it launched phase one with sponsorship of CBS-TV's Lucky Pup Saturday series; then it switched to syndicated film sponsorship in Boston, New York and Philadelphia with Television Programs of America's Ramar of the Jungle; phase three—film participations in Bugs Bunny, etc.—followed and now, Quaker City uses both film and live shows.

The story line: Two kids are playing. He makes believe his G&P box is a locomotive, and she plays along. But the sight and sound of the candy rattling in the box prove to be too much for our young lady; she's tired of make-believe. She wants to eat. The boy doesn't want to quit playing — yet — so he stalls her. Finally, however, with devastating feminine logic, the girl demolishes her boyfriend's train of thought with the simple rejoinder, 'Oh, Charlie, there'll be plenty left for your old engine.'
ANA OKAYs NETWORK RECORDS

The Assn. of National Advertisers last week gave its approval to procedures used by the three national tv networks to assure accurate reporting of proof-of-performance information to sponsors and their agencies.

The association released a 10-page study of the subject prepared by two members of its budget control committee.

Officials said, however, that this committee's views should not be construed to imply that ANA is or is not satisfied that the information advertisers get on triple-spotting (local clipping of network time) is accurate and complete. The question of triple-spotting was raised by the ANA radio-tv committee three months ago in a study reporting that 32 out of 115 advertisers who responded to a survey had "complained of triple-spotting in recent months" [LEAD STORY, May 26].

Officials said last week that the proof-of-performance study related only to the procedures used by networks in reporting what was and what was not broadcast. The report concluded:

". . . . The network, whether it is ABC, NBC, or CBS, acts as a responsible authority for maintaining controls which insure accurate reporting of proof by the networks and points out how network-originated interruptions would jeopardize its affiliation with the network.

"Interruptions of network origin are covered by central broadcast operations reports.

"Interruptions in transmission through AT&T circuits are covered by AT&T reports and also by network reports."

Pabst Appoints Two Blatz Men, Is Expected to Stick With K&EE

Pabst Brewing Co. activity was in evidence at top level last week as the brewery recruited advertising and sales executives from its newly-acquired Blatz subsidiary.

James C. Windham, former Blatz and Pabst president, announced the appointments of Theodore Rosenak as vice president in charge of advertising and Rocco B. Buino as vice president over sales. They also will retain similar posts with Blatz and offices at both breweries, Pabst in Chicago's Merchandise Mart and Blatz in Milwaukee. Their appointments were approved by the Pabst board in Chicago Thursday.

Under the reorganization, both Barney Brienza, advertising manager, and Richard Hehman, marketing director, will report to Mr. Rosenak. The Rosenak and Buino appointments reflect newly-created positions.

The status of Blatz' agency, Kenyon & Eckhardt, reportedly did not enter board discussions last week and is expected to remain unchanged. Pabst acquired the Blatz division of Scheinberg Industries for an estimated $15 million about a month ago [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Aug. 4].

Burnett Gets Two More Lines In Allstate Insurance Account

Leo Burnett Co., Chicago, was named Thursday (Aug. 28) to handle Allstate Insurance Company's life insurance and accident-sickness-hospitalization accounts [DEADLINE, Aug. 25]. The agency has handled Allstate fire and casualty lines for 18 months.

Announcing the appointment, Robert E. Gorman, assistant vice president and advertising director, indicated an aggressive program for the following lines.

"We believe that accident-sickness-hospitalization will be limited at the outset to Oklahoma and Texas, where policies are now being introduced, but Allstate plans to extend this coverage nationwide by Oct. 1, 1959."

DeWitt L. Jones, Burnett account supervisor on Allstate, said the new lines will enable the company to emphasize "a full circle of protection" in its advertising and promotion campaigns.

Allstate has renewed its sponsorship of CBS-TV's Playhouse 90 for the 1958-59 season and also is active with syndicated film properties in some cities on a spot basis. The company is a subsidiary of Sears, Roebuck & Co.

BAR Extends Reports To 125 Largest Cities

Broadcast Advertisers Reports Inc., New York, announced last Friday it is extending its television monitoring activities to cover an additional 230 tv stations in 100 additional cities, including in its report a formation which, among other things, will reflect multiple spotting and product conflicts.

The service marks an expansion of BAR's current activity of monitoring 92 stations in the top 25 markets. The new project will encompass city areas which are not next in size to the top 25 cities and will concentrate on monitoring prime evening time at first but later may be expanded.

Information will be collected into the BAR 100 package and distributed to advertiser and agency clients. The monitoring of prime television spot and network time is set to begin in October. The service is distinct from the "Top 25" report, which monitors stations from sign-on to sign-off. Monitoring is by tape-recording.

Each of the 100 new markets, BAR President Robert Morris said, will be monitored for a full week four times a year—once during each calendar quarter—to provide data on station practices in the spot tv field as well as information on how network-originated programs are handled at the local level. The rates to clients will vary, ranging from $3,500 annually for agencies to $500 per year for agencies with billings under $1 million annually.

Some of the specific features of the servce, as outlined by BAR:

"All commercial announcements will be shown in order of air occurrence; practices such as multiple spotting and product conflicts will be apparent; network time will be logged, indicating clearly instances where local station breaks occupy network time; the report will specify whether the preceding program was network program was affected by over-time of spot programs broadcast during prime time will be logged."

BAR noted that "a brand index" will be a useful part of the service. Announcements monitored for each national brand will be accumulated and indexed alphabetically. The "brand index" will show the frequency cities are used by each brand. For competitive checking purposes, brands will be identified in fine detail to show product variations, BAR said.

Tape recordings of the announcements will be kept on file for three months from the day of the recording so that published data may be authenticated.

Typical Recession Short-Lived, B&B Economic Presentation Says

Recessions historically are short-lived affairs which produce more discussion than damage. This is the stand of Benton & Bowles, major advertising agency, which offers the recession story in chart form.

The B&B graphs originally were prepared for the reference of the agency’s executives in developing advertising and marketing plans for the agency’s 24 clients. The three-part review of U.S. economic history shows...
The Case of the Bank That Refused to Take Money

—not out of charity, but out of esteem. Recently, The Merchants National Bank in Boston told WEEI Radio to disregard the credit due them for pre-empting two programs they sponsor. WEEI had felt the U. N. proceedings on the Mideast warranted unconditional radio coverage. CBS News was at the Security Council meetings, its microphones relaying some of the world’s most historic moments. Holding the conviction that business should “take a larger part in larger matters than its own personal ones,” The Merchants National Bank elected not to accept their credit.

Now this may appear as a simple gesture of appreciation, but to us it meant a great deal more. It was a sponsor’s vote of confidence in what WEEI stands for. WEEI has always had an earnest belief in its role of public service: Each week we schedule at least 32 hours of news, representing over 289 different programs. 165 of these shows originate at WEEI. The station maintains the largest radio news staff in Boston. Each of its announcers is, in addition, a well-known, respected personality. CBS News, of course, is world renowned. There is probably no finer, more enterprising news agency in the world. Working together, these local and network journalists have brought to WEEI the finest reputation a station can enjoy.

From letters, personal thanks, surveys and ratings, we know what our listeners think of us. Just recently, for example, they told a leading research organization that of all the media in Boston, they thought radio was the most indispensable. In particular, they felt that WEEI was the most trustworthy, authoritative station. In a time of national crisis, they said, this is the station they would turn to for information and instruction.

It takes a long time and a lot of effort for a station to achieve this kind of distinction. And though WEEI operates chiefly in the “public interest, necessity and convenience”—we are proud, too, to acknowledge the unqualified support of our sponsors.

To: The Merchants National Bank, our sincerest thanks.

that of the 12 economic downturns since 1897, only one lasted more than a year and only three showed a decline of more than 6%.

The agency charted the gross national product by years and quarter-years. It found that of the four downturns since 1941, three were virtually halted by the third quarter and the fourth or current downturn "appears to be following this pattern." The charts show that consumer expenditures either declined only slightly or actually went up during these four periods.

Stronger Cup of Coffee Urged To Solve Problems of Exporters

"Coffee—and make it strong!" This is the demand Pan American Coffee Bureau hopes could become a stock phrase in U.S. households. If coffee-exporting countries go along, there will be additional advertising and promotion in the U.S. in an effort to boost the U.S. market for green coffee.

The bureau has a $2 million budget for advertising-promotion gained by a 10 cents levy on every imported bag. An executive committee has recommended that the advertising and promotion effort be increased by lifting the rate to 25 cents. The bureau places about $600,000 in radio-TV.

The bureau's research department finds a "rate of deterioration" in home use of roasted coffee. In 1949 the number of cups made from a pound of roasted coffee in the average U.S. home was 45.9 but in 1947 it rose to 64.6.

The bureau's counterpart, Tea Council of the U.S.A., through its agency, Leo Burnett, Chicago, has an estimated $2.2 million budget, most of it in broadcast media. The coffee bureau's agency is Fuller & Smith & Ross, New York.

SINDLINGER'S SET COUNT: As of Aug. 1, Sindlinger data shows: (1) 110,071,000 people over 12 years of age see tv (87.8% of the people in that age group); (2) 42,656,000 U. The data highlights key statistics such as the number of people watching television, the number of households with television, and the number of television sets in use within the United States. Broader implications include the influence of television on consumer behavior, the effectiveness of various advertising strategies, and the impact of programming on audience retention. The information's utility extends to various industries, including the film industry, where the data can be instrumental in planning marketing campaigns and understanding consumer preferences. The analysis also supports research in media studies, particularly in understanding the evolution of television's role in society and its role as a communication and entertainment medium. This data can serve as a cornerstone for discussions on media consumption, innovation, and the broader cultural landscape, informing policymakers, researchers, and industry stakeholders alike. The data's scope encompasses television viewing habits across the U.S., providing a comprehensive view through cumulative and average daily figures. Understanding such figures is crucial in shaping strategies for advertisers, policymakers, and media producers, ensuring that resources are allocated effectively to meet audience demands and to influence broader societal trends.

With the field of physical science front and center in all minds today, consider the prominent part played by Metropolitan Washington. Our biggest business firm, the Federal Government, has become a virtual partner with American industry in research and development. In 1956 Federal funds financed 49% of all national expenditures in this direction. Research and development organizations in or around Washington, D. C. employ some 35,000 persons. Ours is now the nation's sixth largest scientific and technical labor force. Whether America is at peace or in a cold war, these people seem certain to stay—and to grow.*

The future of $100 million-a-year worth of television network quiz programs was jeopardized last week by threats of the first major scandal in television history.

As the New York district attorney began investigating allegations that one and possibly two of television's biggest quizzes were rigged, advertising and programming executives wondered if a staple television format had been ruined.

Two-dozen quiz shows are now on the television networks, almost all of them on CBS-TV and NBC-TV. Together they represent a total yearly budget of $60 million for time and $40 million for talent and production.

Two of the shows had been hit by direct publicity, one of them after it had already been killed by an outraged sponsor. Dorito, cancelled over the Aug. 16 weekend [NETWORKS, Aug. 25], was under intense investigation. Twenty-One, 1958's biggest quiz hit, was accused of fakery by a contestant who won $50,000 by assertedly parroting answers prepared for him in advance.

After days of gory journalism and innuendos, the quiz confusion appeared to be found them to be utterly baseless and untrue. We are completely convinced of the integrity of Twenty-One as a program and of the integrity of its producers, Barry & Enright.

- Will audiences continue to watch if they think shows rigged?

"At the time these charges were first brought to our attention and shortly thereafter, two major New York newspapers made thorough investigations of them and apparently concluded, as we did, that they had no basis in fact. As a result, they printed nothing."

Similarly Charles Van Doren, Columbia U. instructor who won $129,000 on Twenty-One, voiced "complete faith in the honesty of the show." He competed against the complaining Mr. Stempel. "If Stempel, who is a very smart man, deliberately lost to me, then I had no right to win the money," Mr. Van Doren said, adding, "I lost honestly. At no time was any pressure put upon me. At no time was I coached or tutored."

Colgate-Palmolive, sponsor of Dotto, and CBS-TV last week broke the silence they had maintained as to why the popular tv quiz program had been yanked off the air. Prompting their comments was an investiga-

THE QUIZ PHENOMENON

The quiz program has become a fixture on network tv along with westerns, situation comedies and mysteries. More than a year ago, Broadcasting spotlighted the fact that tv quizzes paid off for the advertiser as well as for the contestant [LEAD STORY, March 18, 1957].

At that time, some 12 network tv quiz programs—of the substantial money class—flourished on the airwaves. A quick check of network schedules shows about twice that number either now on tv or scheduled to go on.

The quiz format is sprinkled liberally in CBS-TV and NBC-TV schedules in both daytime and nighttime. ABC-TV traditionally has been "clean" of quiz programs. Right now, it has a semi-serious quiz game, Anybody Can Play, an R. J. Reynolds-sponsored program, that is in the Sunday, 8:30–9 p.m. period. One ABC-TV spokesman said last week the only "rigged" shows on ABC-TV are its numerous westerns. "We always know the hero is going to win."

Big national advertiser names—among them Procter & Gamble, Colgate-Palmolive, Lever Bros., Speidel, Brown & Williamson, Pharmaceuticals Inc., P. Lorillard and Kellogg—are sponsors of various quizzes.

NBC-TV's daytime schedule has five quiz shows running Mon.-Fri. and CBS-TV similarly has four. On NBC-TV, the block of quiz or participation shows is solid from 10 a.m. through 12:30 p.m. with Dough Re Mi, Treasure Hunt, The Price Is Right (daytime version), Concentration and Tic Tac Dough. From 2-3 p.m. Truth or Consequences and Haggis Baggis are on. The nighttime schedule on NBC-TV has such known quiz programs as Haggis Baggis and Twenty-One on Monday night; Win With A Winner on Tuesday night (which goes off Sept. 16); The Price Is Right which started in September goes from Thursday to Wednesday night; Tic Tac Dough (nighttime version) on Thursday night (which reportedly will switch slots with Haggis Baggis), and such others slated in the fall for Thursday night, as You Bet Your Life and The $64,000 Challenge, the latter moving to NBC-TV from CBS-TV. Challenge will replace Music Bingo, a summer quiz, A summer run of Big Game (Friday night) ends soon.

The CBS-TV Mon.-Fri. daytime quiz shows include For the Love of Money, Play Your Hunch, Top Dollar and The Big Payoff. Nighttime shows are Challenge (which goes to NBC-TV when The $64,000 Question returns to CBS-TV Sept. 21 Sundays 10–10:30 p.m.); Name that Tune on Tuesday evening, Bid 'n Buy also on Tuesday evening.

If any program can be said to be the one which started the quiz boom on network tv, it is The $64,000 Question. The program began on CBS-TV in 1955 became an immediate hit and one of the biggest advertising success stories in tv.

Annual sales of Revlon, the Question's first sponsor, rose from $33.6 million in 1954 to $51.6 million in 1955 and $85.7 million in 1956. Revlon's "Living Lipstick," the first product advertised on Question fell 90 days behind orders and had to be rationed to dealers.

The all-time record of $252,000 in quiz show winnings resided up to yesterday (Aug. 31) with Teddy Nadler, a 49-year-old former U.S. Civil Service clerk who lives in St. Louis. Before he became a quiz answer man on The $64,000 Challenge (CBS-TV Sunday 10:10–30 p.m.), Mr. Nadler never made more than $70 a week. He was slated to match wits again yesterday.

Other quiz kings: Charles Van Doren, a Columbia U. instructor, who won $129,000 on Twenty-One (NBC-TV); Elfrida von Nardroff, an ex-personnel manager studying for a doctorate, who piled up $220,500 on the same program; Leonard Ross, who at age 11 picked up $164,000 in winnings on two programs; and Mr. and Mrs. Erik Gude, who, being paid in $100 weekly installments a total sum of $120,400 won on Do You Trust Your Wife?, formerly on CBS-TV.
tion started in New York by the district attorney's office.

The Colgate company last Wednesday issued a statement saying that on Aug. 7 a "standby contestant on the daytime Dotto program of May 29 contacted [Colgate] and submitted an affidavit regarding an incident which he stated had occurred in connection with that show." Colgate said it acted immediately on the information, of which it had known nothing earlier and "within hours set in motion an investigation which resulted in the cancellation of both the daytime [CBS-TV] and nighttime [NBC-TV] Dotto shows, effective Aug. 16. The matter also was brought to the attention of both networks."

Colgate said it welcomed the entry of the district attorney's office into the case and offered "full cooperation."

CBS-TV's Hubbell Robinson Jr., executive vice president in charge of network programs, also pledged cooperation with the district attorney and, at the same time, asked the investigators to turn over any information they might uncover "with respect to any irregularity in any quiz show on our network so that we can take appropriate action."

Mr. Robinson said CBS-TV had conducted an inquiry of its own during the week following cancellation of Dotto into all quiz shows on the network, but "we have been unable to discover any improper procedures on any such quiz shows." He noted, however, that CBS-TV did not have the subpoena and other powers that the district attorney possesses.

The CBS-TV executive said the network neither owned nor produced any of the quiz shows. All are contracted for by sponsors from independent producers.

Mr. Robinson said: "While we are anxious not to carry any programs which might defraud or mislead our audience, we deem it equally our obligation not wantonly to destroy the valuable program properties thus supplied us simply on the basis of rumor and gossip and without having real evidence that the owner of such a property is guilty of a fraud."

The D. A.'s office Thursday, on its own volition, acknowledged the cooperation it was getting from CBS-TV and Frank Cooper Associates, the program company firm that owned and produced Dotto.

By midweek, identification of the standby contestant who had been questioned on Dotto had been made. He is Edward Hilgeman Jr., an actor and part-time butler. It was learned that it was also his affidavit that had been filed with the FCC. This affidavit, it is said, charged that the show was rigged to favor another contestant and that Mr. Hilgeman and still another contestant allegedly received payment as a result of his knowledge of the incident.

The district attorney's office gave this official version of its role:

The office was called into the Dotto case on Aug. 23 when Mr. Hilgeman volunteered information. He has been interrogated; so have a dozen others.

Another man, Herbert Stempel, identified as having been $50,000 winner on Twenty-One on NBC-TV, also was interrogated, according to the district attorney's office. An authority said the district attorney's office would identify Mr. Stempel because the New York Journal-American had written about him and that the Journal-American was correct because the newspaper had "brought him into the office" for questioning. Officials gave no indication of the nature of his statement, but the Journal-American reported Mr. Stempel had said he was given his winning answers.

Earlier in the week, Broadcasting interviewed David S. Worgan, executive assistant district attorney. (Frank S. Hogan, nominee on the Democratic ticket in New York for U. S. Senator, is district attorney in New York.) Mr. Worgan said his office was willing to " anybody who knows anything" about the Dotto or other tv quiz cases. He said the investigators sought the "whole picture." He said it was not known if a crime had been committed or under what law any malpractice would come.

The attorneys at Mr. Hogan's office were uncertain as to whether irregularities on a quiz show would constitute a crime. But crime or not if "unethical" practices were discovered, they said, "will bring them to the attention of the public."

Network officials for the most part refused to discuss specifics of Dotto or related problems. One executive, however, pointed out contestant complaints were nothing new, that the network has been receiving them occasionally for some years, "particularly from contestants who lost out." Each one was looked into by the network. "We could not afford to do otherwise," he said.

Others, however, took a gloomier view. They feared the Dotto incident might reflect on all quiz shows, whether rightly or not, and make all of them suspect.

Reportedly FCC's request of CBS-TV for an explanation of the affidavit filed with it on Dotto [Networks, Aug. 25] had not yet been complied with, but CBS-TV and NBC-TV did inform the Commission of Dotto's cancellation.

Tv Audience Up 9% at Night, 14% in Day, TbV Figures Show

An increase of 9% in average evening program audiences and a 14% rise in average daytime audience was shown in the first seven months of 1958, according to Television Bureau of Advertising's January-July report issued last week. The report again indicates a constant upward trend with the seven-month period report setting new record highs. Average weekday daytime programs reached 428,000 more homes per broadcast than in 1957; the average increase for evening programs was 716,000 homes, TbV reported.

NBC-TV Heralds Daytime Sales

- $64 million in till; 70% of programming sold
- CBS-TV 78% sold; ABC-TV building 'Daybreak'

NBC-TV was radiating daytime cheer last week.

Walter D. Scott, network sales vice president, announced that daytime orders amounting to approximately $64 million in gross advertising revenues had already been placed with NBC-TV for the fall season.

Don Durgin, vice president and national sales manager, followed this by pointing out, in releasing the network's new "report on daytime" presentation, that the $64 million (representing time and talent) was the biggest volume of daytime business (Monday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.) ever recorded by NBC-TV. He said daytime sales not only were running well ahead of last year but that advertisers were buying longer station line-ups this year.

He estimated that for the fourth quarter, approximately 70% of the daytime periods have been sold, as against about 60% a year ago.

Mr. Durgin stated that "every bit" of business on NBC-TV, daytime or nighttime, was sold "at rate card," and that he was confident the same was true at CBS-TV.

"The national network can make that statement," he added.

A CBS-TV official reported that his network was 78% sold in daytime—exactly the same percentage as a year ago at this time. ABC-TV has no real basis for comparison with 1957; until this year it has operated without any daytime programming. But officials report approximately 95% of the 60 weekly quarter-hours scheduled for its "Operation Daybreak" project this fall have been sold, and 10 additional quarter hours are being added.

Mr. Durgin also reported that NBC-TV has revised its contiguous rate policy to avoid penalizing advertisers who wish to buy multiple periods on the same day but cannot do so because the time is not available. For example, Mr. Durgin explained, an advertiser wanting but not able to get four quarter hours on the same day will be allowed to get the contiguous rate even though some of the four must be scheduled on different days. But such advertisers will be required to specify a "base" day and then move their programs to that day as time becomes available.

Mr. Durgin attributed NBC-TV's daytime success to four factors:

- Major investments involving multiple program orders from a number of major advertisers new to NBC-TV—Frigidaire Div. of General Motors, H. J. Heinz Co., National Biscuit and Sunshine Biscuit.
- Important advertisers returning to NBC-TV after several years' absence—General Mills and Pillsbury Mills, for example.
- Increased orders by present advertisers—such as Alberto-Culver Co., Whitehall Labs, Armour & Co. and Lever Bros.
- Renewal of existing business by advertisers—such as Procter & Gamble, Miles Labs, Mentholatum Co., Sterling Drug, Brillo, Chesbrough-Ponds and Standard Brands.

Mr. Durgin said four daytime programs are 100% sold: Treasure Hunt, The Price Is Right, Tic Tac Dough and Queen For A Day; that It Could Be You is 95% sold; that Today Is Ours, which started June 30, is 75% sold, and that County Fair, set to start Sept. 22, is 60% sold.

NBC's new report on daytime stresses daytime television as "the fastest growing advertising medium" (daily home hours of viewing up 45% over 1956) and as "the young housewife medium" (homes with housewives aged 16 to 34 average 12.5 hours of viewing a week, compared to the U. S. average of 10.5 hours). Daytime's cost per thousand per minute ($1.43) was rated 142% over rating period by most independents.

Robert McFadyen, NBC-TV director of sales development, cited the following case histories showing how NBC-TV advertisers use daytime:

- Corn Products Refining Co. uses three daytime quarter-hours a week at a cost of approximately $180,000, delivering 139 million women impressions as compared to 51 million reached with a similar expenditure for an average evening half-hour.

- Gossard, on Queen For A Day, is using 35 local commercial cut-ins per week at about $55 per station.

Dixie Cup used 13 NBC-TV daytime programs for a saturation campaign throughout April, had a cumulative rating of 38, reached 13.9 million homes and made 78 million personal sales calls at a total campaign cost of $178,000.

Alberto-Culver used NBC-TV daytime programs in 1956-57 to establish its VO-5 hair dressing and Rinse Away dandruff treatment, has doubled its purchase each year since—and for the first half of 1958 had sales 87% higher than in the same period of 1957.

Rotation of Coverage Suggested by Sarnoff

A proposal that the three television networks consider a rotational system for live coverage of United Nations meetings, presidential addresses and political conventions was made last week by Robert W. Sarnoff, NBC board chairman.

Mr. Sarnoff outlined his suggestion in his monthly newsletter to the nation's radio-television editors. He remarked at the outset that his observations were prompted by a letter from a lady in Brooklyn who complained about the network's full coverage of UN activities by writing, "Whose idea is it to cut in on Dragnet with a UN session? Of all the ridiculous things, that bobo wins the extra-large portion of fried cockroaches."

Mr. Sarnoff acknowledged that NBC's recent coverage of the United Nations meetings on the middle east crisis had resulted in praise from many viewers but said that some had protested. He noted that viewers in cities with three or fewer stations were deprived of freedom of program choice when the networks prevented simultaneous coverage of special events. He also cited the "financial strain" incurred by networks because of "prolonged periods of commercial cancellations."

Mr. Sarnoff called on the tv networks and the major political parties to begin to consider immediately "a more effective" method of presenting the 1960 conventions.

Spokesmen for ABC and CBS expressed a willingness to explore Mr. Sarnoff's suggestion but raised questions about the practicality of his proposal.

Oliver A. Treyz, president of ABC, stated:

"I think it is a matter that should be explored. However, I wonder if the quality of service to the public would deteriorate when the competitive factor among the networks is eliminated."

Sid Mickelson, vice president in charge of CBS News, was in favor of discussing the proposal but expressed skepticism that the rotating system would work. He pointed out that it was feasible in some instances, as in a public speech, but doubted it could be implemented for events of wide national interest, such as a political convention.

TV PROFITS FOR 1957 SLIDE 15.6%

FCC records medium's first drop as grosses continue upward spiral

Gross up, profits down.
That was the tv picture in 1957, as shown by FCC economic data which was released last week.
Total tv broadcast revenues reached an unprecedented $943.2 million for the calendar year 1957, the FCC said. This is 5.2% over 1956's $896.9 million.
But industry profits before federal taxes sank 15.6% in 1957 compared with 1956—$160 million versus $189.6 million.
This is the first drop in tv profits since the medium began its phenomenal commercial rise 10 years ago.
For the first time, tv has joined company with other American industries in today's bittersweet economy—higher grosses, sinking profits.
The villain is the same as in other segments of American business—spiraling costs. Total tv broadcast expenses increased 10.7% in 1956—from $707.3 million in 1956 to $783.2 million in 1957.
The three tv networks and their 16 owned stations upped total revenues 6% in 1957—to $467.9 million, almost half of the total industry revenues. But their expenses jumped by 11%—to $297.2 million—and their profits fell 17%—to $70.7 million.
The 95 tv stations and 162.3 million, up slightly over 1956's $260.7 million. Expenses rose almost 5% and profits were down 9%, to $82 million.
Total revenues of 390 post-freeze stations were $214 million. Of these, 302 were vhf stations which reported total revenues of $187.3 million, 16% above 1956 (when only 269 vhf outlets were operating). Profits for this group, however, were also down—$10.8 million compared to the previous year's $16.4 million. The 88 uhf stations had total revenues of $26.7 million, down from $32.5 million in 1956 (with 95 uhf outlets in operation). The uhf stations lost $3.5 million in 1957, compared to $1.9 million in 1956.
Total time sales reached $868.7 million. This was before payment of commissions to advertising agencies, station representatives, etc. Time sales divided into 45.4% ($394.2 million) from sale of network time to national advertisers, 34.1% ($296.4 million) from sale of non-network time to national advertisers, and 20.5% ($178.1 million) from sale of time to local advertisers.
Among other highlights of the 1957 financial report:
- More than 75% of tv's total 1957 revenues came from the sale of time (the remainder came from the sale of talent, programs and production charges).
- The 501 tv stations had an investment in tangible broadcast property amounting to $546.4 million representing original cost, or $316.3 million in depreciated cost.

MARKSMANSHIP

Broadcasting shot close to the mark in its estimates for 1957 tv time sales. In its "Perspective: '58" issue last Feb. 24, Broadcasting figured total time sales at $849.2 million; last week's FCC report showed a 2.2% error on the conservative side; total time sales reached $868.7 million.
Herewith a comparison of this publication's estimates and the official FCC figures:

Katzentine Up First
For Ch. 10 Rehearing

A. Frank Katzentine, owner of WKAT Miami and leading figure in the fight against the FCC's 1957 grant of ch. 10 there to National Airlines subsidiary Public Service TV Inc., will be the lead-off witness when the Miami ch. 10 hearing begins Sept. 8.

The date—and list of witnesses to be called by the FCC's General Counsel—was selected last week at a pre-hearing conference among attorneys for the seven parties. The date was set by Judge Horace Stern, retired chief justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, acting as special FCC hearing examiner.

The Miami ch. 10 grant was the subject of extensive hearings before a Congressional committee earlier this year. It was remedied to the FCC by the U. S. Court of Appeals to determine among other things whether former Comr. Richard A. Mack should have voted in the final decision and also whether there were any improper influences on commissioners before the final decision.

Eastern Airlines was a party to the rehearing, but withdrew two weeks ago when the Commission refused its plea to participate in the entire case. Eastern's intervention was allowed on only the first issue: whether Mr. Mack should have voted.

Eastern attempted to intervene during the latter stages of the original hearing. It opposed the grant to National Airlines as unfair competition.

Besides Mr. Katzentine, the witnesses in the first week are scheduled to be Perrine Palmer, former Miami mayor; Joseph M. Fitzgerald, Miami attorney; Jerry W. Carter, Florida public utilities commissioner, and Ben H. Fuqua, Miami attorney.

Other witnesses scheduled to be called by the FCC's general counsel are Judge Robert H. Anderson, Miami circuit court; Paul Scott, National Airlines director; Ted Baker, National Airlines president; Thurmond A. Whiteside, Miami attorney and friend of Mr. Mack, and Charles Sheldon, Miami insurance executive.

Mr. Mack resigned from the FCC when it was brought out by the House Legislative Oversight Committee that he had accepted a long string of loans from Mr. Whiteside and that Mr. Whiteside had purportedly interested himself in the Miami ch. 10 case.

Portions of Mr. Mack's testimony on Capitol Hill have been accepted as stipulation by other parties in the rehearing. Commission attorneys said last week they had no intention of calling Mr. Mack. Other parties may, however, if they wish to quiz him on his Congressional testimony. Edgar W. Holtz, FCC associate general counsel, will lead the FCC legal contingent in the hearing.

Wayne Tv Corp. Asks Stay,
Rehearing of Toledo Ch. 11

Anthony Wayne Television Corp. last week petitioned the FCC for a rehearing, with enlarged issues, and a stay of the effective date of the grant of ch. 11 Toledo, Ohio, to the Community Broadcasting Co. [Govermment, July 28].

Among other issues raised, Wayne wants to determine if Community Broadcasting Co. commenced construction prior to receiving a construction permit, in violation of FCC rules. Also, Wayne desires to determine the program service rendered by ch. 6 WJIM-TV Lansing, Mich., subsequent to Sept. 12, 1953. Wayne states that the Commission disqualified it largely on "erroneous findings and conclusions" concerning WJIM-TV Lansing's operation from two to five years ago. Harold F. Gross, a 10.6% stockholder of Wayne, is president and principal stockholder of the Lansing station, according to the Wayne petition.

All told, there were seven applicants for ch. 11 in Toledo. Two of the other unsuccessful ones, Maumee Valley Broadcasting Co. and Great Lakes Broadcasting Co., are currently contesting the FCC's grant to Community Broadcasting in court.

Potter Renews Plea For Spectrum Study

Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.), on the last day Congress was in session (Aug. 23), made a new appeal for a congressional study of frequency space allocated to the military. In doing so, he accepted a suggestion made in an Aug. 18 Broadcasting editorial advocating a joint congressional committee for such a study.

"SI Res 106 which I introduced," Sen. Potter said, "contemplated establishment of a commission to investigate the utilization of the radio and television frequencies allocated to the agencies and instrumentalities of the federal government. I thought there was no particularly strong feelings as to what vehicle might be used to accomplish the desired results. I felt it was definitely necessary, I suppose, to do some investigation of this sort.

"As the article [editorial] suggests, activation of a Joint Congressional Committee on Spectrum Utilization & Allocation would be a better approach, I would most certainly support such a proposal."

In making his statement, Sen. Potter entered the Broadcasting editorial into the Congressional Record.

The Potter resolution passed the Senate unanimously [GOVERNMENT, July 11]. While in the House Commerce Committee, the White House "suggested" amendments to the bill which would expand the proposed study to an all-encompassing investigation of the spectrum, plus a study of its administration by the FCC. The House committee favorably reported the bill after adopting the amendments [At DEADLINE, Aug. 4]; industry opposition immediately arose and it was killed without ever reaching the House floor [GOVERNMENT, Aug. 11].

Rep. William Springer (R-III), in commenting on the Broadcasting joint committee suggestion, said that something should be done "about this particular [allocations] situation." He said the House Commerce Committee, of which he is a member, will have ample time to "come up with a good bill when the Congress convenes in January."

Rep. William Bray (R-Ind.) is the author of a House measure identical to the original Potter resolution.

Am Initial Decisions Issued

Three am applications won initial decisions from FCC hearing examiners last week.

- Examiner Herbert Sharfman decided in favor of West Shore Broadcasting Co. and the Westport Broadcasting Co. for new am outlets on 1260 kc with 1 kw, day, directional antennas, in Beacon, N. Y., and Westport, Conn., respectively. Interference between the two proposed stations would be well within the 10% limit permitted by FCC rules, according to the decision.
- Examiner Thomas Donahue would grant Liberty Broadcasting Co. a new am outlet on 1050 kc with 250 w, directional antenna, day, in Liberty, Tex. Issues as to possible interference and the coverage area proposed were resolved in Liberty's favor.

Baker Winds Up Five Years
In FCC General Counsel Post

Warren E. Baker, FCC general counsel since September 1953, will resign this week to enter private law practice. Mr. Baker's resignation takes effect Friday, Sept. 6.

Mr. Baker joins the New York law firm of Chadbourne, Parker, Whiteside & Baker and will direct the Washington office of the firm. The new office will be in the Shoreham Bldg. in Washington.

"The 44-year-old FCC general counsel, a Fort Wayne, Ind., native, came to the FCC from the post of special assistant to Oswald Ryan, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board. Before that he was a CAB hearing examiner. He is an honor graduate of Indiana U. Law School, practiced law in Fort Wayne for two years before entering the Navy. He served part of his Navy career in the office of the general counsel of the War Shipping Administration."

Mr. Baker replaced Benedict P. Cottone as FCC general counsel after Mr. Cottone resigned to enter private practice. During Mr. Baker's tenure, he served as chief legal aide to the Commission in its appearances before congressional committees and in a number of court cases. These included arguing in the Supreme Court in behalf of the FCC's multiple ownership rules (they were sustained), and the Allentown-Easton radio case (the FCC was upheld). When Mr. Baker joined the FCC, there were 13 attorneys in the general counsel's office; today there are 24. In 1952, the FCC general counsel's office handled 17 court cases; last year there were 75.

Community Tv Firm Scolds FCC
On Microwave Application Delay

The first move to chip away the "deep frost" in which private microwave common carrier system applications for community tv systems have lain since May, was made last week by Mesa Microwave Inc.

Mesa, owned by Video Independent Theatres Inc., Oklahoma City theatre chain which also operates a number of CATV systems, has eight applications pending for FCC approval to furnish tv signals to community antenna systems in Laredo, Tex.; Tallahassee, Fla., and Memphis-Wellington-Childress, Tex. The first was filed last March, the most recent in June. Mesa already operates private communications relays feeding Oklahoma City tv signals to community systems in Altus and Ardmore, Okla.

In a formal petition for immediate
Influence in Spartanburg Case Challenged by WAIM-TV, WGVL (TV)

Charges that Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) and former S. C. Governor James F. Byrnes injected themselves into the Spartanburg case to withhold action on grants, Mesa chided the Commission for withholding action on CATV, satellites, repeaters, translators, etc. [Trade Assns., June 16]. This inquiry was issued last May and comments were filed in July [Government, July 14, May 26].

The allegations were made by WAIM-TV Anderson, S. C., and WGVL (TV) Greenville, S. C., in a pleading to the FCC.

The uhf stations, which have fought the Spartanburg transmitter change four years, claimed Walter Brown, president of Spartan Broadcasting Co., and others "sought improperly, by ex parte consultation and communications, to influence favorable Commission action in Spartan's behalf." The uhf outlets charged that Mr. Brown consulted with "one commissioner"; that Sen. Thurmond wrote to then FCC Chairman George C. McConnaughey in 1956 "urging favorable Commission action on the further proceedings required by the Court's decision"; that Mr. Byrnes had written to a member of the court "with respect to the matter in litigation." Mr. Byrnes' wife, they said, is a stockholder of Spartan.

The charges were made in a petition asking the Commission to permit the uhf outlets to rebut favorable testimony on its am/fm operations in new hearings, designated but not yet scheduled. The WSAP-TV case began in 1954 when the Commission approved the move of the uhf station's transmitter from Hogback Mt. to Paris Mt. Two uhf stations protested, but the Commission refused to allow the protests. Upon appeal, the Court of Appeals remanded the case to the FCC for a hearing. The Commission upheld its move authorization in a decision in July 1957. This was appealed, and last May the court returned the case once again to the FCC.

Prettyman to Head Appeals Court

Federal Judge E. Barrett Prettyman becomes chief judge of the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals on Oct. 20. Judge Prettyman takes over the reins from Chief Judge Henry W. Edgerton, who advised that he was relinquishing his administrative duties to the next senior judge. Judge Edgerton was 70 last Tuesday. Congress passed a law last month requiring chief judges to relinquish their administrative duties at 70. Judge Edgerton will remain as an active circuit judge. Judge Prettyman is a native of Lexington, Va., and was appointed to the D.C. appeals court in 1945. He served as general counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, as District of Columbia corporation counsel and in private practice before his appointment.

WORDS AND MUSIC

Good music enthusiasts in the Philadelphia area, who "have invested considerable money, time and effort in assembling and purchasing antennas and equipment to receive . . . WQXR-FM (New York)", attacked a decision of the FCC which they claimed cut into their WQXR-FM listening pleasure. The music fans, 18 strong according to the signatures at the bottom of the letter, state that with the frequency change of WHAT-FM Philadelphia, "it came as a shock to us to hear New York WQXR . . ." They contend that the New York outlet provides "excellent high fidelity live music" unobtainable locally. WHAT-FM had its frequency changed from 103.3 mc, ch. 287, to 96.5 mc, ch. 243, some weeks ago.

Electoral on Their Minds

As Congress Winds Up Session

Electoral fever was evident in both houses of the 85th Congress as it rushed toward sine die adjournment Aug. 24. The House appointed a "watchdog" election committee and the Senate heard a new plea for federal subsidization of candidates' campaign expenses.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) appointed Rep. Clifford Davis (D-Tenn.) chairman of a special five-man committee to investigate campaign expenditures of House candidates in the upcoming November elections. Other members include Reps. Robert E. Byrd (D-W. Va.), Thomas P. O'Neill (D-Mass.), Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.), and David S. Dennison (R-Ohio). The committee was allocated $30,000.

In the Senate, Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ohio) made a plea for early congressional consideration in 1959 of his proposal for the federal government to underwrite campaign expenditures. Sen. Neuberger introduced such a measure in the 84th Congress and announced plans to re-introduce the bill at the 86th Congress in January.

"One of the truly crucial public issues facing the American people is the urgent need to free candidates for high elective office from the necessity of raising large sums of money or from private sources," he said. He entered into the Congressional Record portions of a 1957 Senate Elections Subcommittee report listing contributions in the 1956 [Government, Feb. 4, 1957].

Hill Would Spend $8 Million To Relate Education to Media

An educational bill, which includes an $8 million appropriation to study the use of radio, tv and other media in education, was awaiting the President's signature last Thursday. The money would be spread over a four-year period, with $2 million earmarked each year.

Both houses approved conference reports of the bill, the National Defense Education Act, in the final stages of the 85th Congress. Another measure (S 2119), which would appropriate up to $1 million to each state for educational tv, was killed during Congress' rush for adjournment when the House failed to act on the Senate-passed measure.

Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.), author of the bill, promised to re-introduce it next January. He also predicted quick Senate action a second time and that the House would have "plenty of time" to consider it in the 86th Congress.

WMIX Asks Ch. 13 Allocation

WMIX-AM-FM Mt. Vernon, Ill., has petitioned the FCC to assign ch. 13 to Mt. Vernon. Ch. 38 is the present assignment in Mt. Vernon at this time. The WMIX licensee, Mt. Vernon Radio & TV Co., previously sought assignment of ch. 8 to Mt. Vernon without success. Ch. 8 was assigned, instead, to Carbondale, Ill., for educational use. According to WMIX, no assignment of any existing channels would be necessary for ch. 13 to go to Mt. Vernon.
HILL CONSIDERED 155 MEDIA BILLS
- Only three minor measures affecting industry enacted
- Pay tv and government ethics dominate list of bills

The 85th Congress that adjourned sine die early Sunday morning (Aug. 24) received 155 bills and resolutions affecting the broadcasting industry and/or the FCC. (For a complete round-up of the 85th's activities, see Lead Story, Aug. 18.)

Pay television was the subject of the largest number of bills, drawing 28. Following closely, as a result of the Legislative Oversight investigations, were 23 measures introduced on ex-partite contacts, influence and ethics of government officials. Also drawing considerable attention were the 10% excise tax on radio-tv sets, with 14 bills calling for its removal, reduction or suspension, and sports antitrust legislation which attracted nine measures (one later withdrawn).

Only three of the 155 passed both houses, all of a minor nature. Appropriation bills and various committee authorizations, which must be acted upon each year, are not included in either the totals introduced or passed.

With the adjournment of the 85th, all the bills now are dead and must be reintroduced at the start of the 86th Congress, which convenes Jan. 7, 1959, to receive further consideration.

"Ad Age is our ticker tape of advertising"

GORDON G. HURT
Director of Merchandising and Advertising
Norge Division,
Borg-Warner Corporation

Say:

PAUL E. KELLY
Vice-President and Account Executive, Norge Home Appliances
Donahue & Coe, Inc.

"Advertising Age fulfills a vital role in keeping us up to the minute, sparking ideas, keeping us abreast of news breaking a mile a minute. In the doing, Ad Age performs a tremendous service for the home appliance industry and those of us in its marketing phase—sometimes called the 'profession of immediacy.' For agency and client alike, Ad Age is the ticker tape of the advertising world."

All things to all admen? Not quite. But Advertising Age does fulfill a "vital role" for the marketing-interested executives who influence as well as those who activate today's market and media decisions. So, it's not an idle claim—it's a fact: your sales message in Ad Age reaches most of the decision-makers of importance to you because week in, week out, they depend on Ad Age for its unique and immediate coverage of the advertising-marketing scene.

Take the Norge Division of the Borg-Warner Corp., for example. This leading manufacturer of laundry, cooking and refrigeration appliances—with annual sales in the $100,000,000 category—is about to kick off the biggest television spot campaign in its history. Some 50 markets will get a substantial portion of a $1,500,000 appropriation (allocated primarily to back Norge's Dispensomat automatic washer) over an eight-week period starting September 15. In addition, many of the 87 Norge distributors use radio and tv spots regularly throughout the year.

Every Monday, 6 paid-subscription copies of Ad Age perform a "tremendous service" for Norge executives with marketing responsibilities. Further, 48 paid-subscription copies get read—and used—at Donahue & Coe, Inc., the agency handling the Norge account.

Add to this AA's more than 42,000 paid circulation, its tremendous penetration of advertising with a weekly paid circulation currently reaching over 12,500 agency people alone, its intense readership by top executives in national advertising companies—and you'll recognize in Ad Age a most influential medium for swinging broadcast decisions your way.

GORDON G. HURT is responsible for a total Norge home appliance advertising and merchandising effort of nearly $10,000,000 a year. Before joining Norge in 1957, he was an account executive with Maxon, Inc., for three years. From 1947 to 1954, he was associated with the Hotpoint Company, where he held several positions, including that of advertising manager in charge of major appliances.

PAUL E. KELLY, also a Maxon alumnus, served that agency as an account executive from 1948 to 1955. His earlier agency associations include Tatham-Laird (account executive and office manager) and Young & Rubicam (traffic and production manager). Prior to coming to Donahue & Coe in 1957, he was advertising and sales manager for the Lake Shore Division, Electrographic Corp., for two years.

39 'THIRD MAN' SHOWS, NO PILOT

The day of the pilot film is just about over, Mort Abrahams, executive producer of National Telefilm Assoc., said last week in announcing plans of NTA to film 39 installments of the Third Man tv series which it is co-producing with the BBC. Of the 39 half-hour episodes, 20 will be produced in Hollywood starting this November, 19 in England and on the continent starting next spring. Felix Jackson will be producer of the series, both here and abroad.

The time has come for producers to back their judgment with their own money and produce a full series, as NTA is doing with Third Man, Mr. Abrahams stated. In today's stiff competition for good TV programming, the advertiser must realize that if he's buying a series for $35,000 per program, the quality of the series as a whole is not going to match that of a pilot made for twice that amount.

"We want our programming to be so important that an investment of $1 million or $2 million will be incidental," Mr. Abrahams declared. He pointed out that a prospective sponsor can see 39 episodes of any NTA TV program, not just a pilot or two, and commented parenthetically that by producing a full series in advance the producer is freed from any sponsor interference in making the programs.

Discussions are under way with 20th Century-Fox to film the Third Man at the motion picture company's Westwood lot, Mr. Abrahams said. NTA used 20th's facilities to produce Man Without A Gun and How to Marry a Millionaire and the two organizations are co-owners of the NTA Film Network. The English part of the series will be filmed at the Shepperton Studios of British Lion, he said.

The cost of making the Third Man, which will star James Mason, will come to about $1.5 million. BBC is financing part of the series. Mr. Abrahams said, but he declined to reveal the details, saying that they would have to come from BBC. This is the first time that the non-commercial state broadcasting organization has entered into a commercial enterprise with an American company, he stated. David Swift and Dick Berg are writing some of the Third Man episodes here. British writers will also work on the series.

Videotape will be important in NTA's future, Mr. Abrahams stated during his news conference Aug. 26 at the Beverly Hills Hotel, Beverly Hills, Calif. With tape recording equipment already installed at WNTA-TV Newark, N. J., and a similar installation planned for KMSP-TV Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., he said that NTA also is preparing for videotape recording at its New York headquarters in addition to its own TV stations.

"We have large scale plans in blueprint form for this very flexible medium," he said, predicting that in the next two years videotape will become a big part of broadcasting. NTA will begin by using VTR for commercials for its own programs and is already exploring other uses of the process.

Pike to Produce Pictures

James A. Pike, vice president of the Yankee Div., RKO Telephoto Pictures Inc. (WNAC-TV Boston), has resigned to form Pike Productions, Boston, effective today (Sept. 1). The firm plans to produce 16 and 35 mm TV spots for education, public affairs and feature films for industry in monochrome or color.

FPA Antitrust Move on Networks Said to Be Only 'Precautionary'

The Film Producers Assn. of New York, which recently asked the Justice Dept. to explore "possible monopolistic practices" by television networks in the field of videotape programs and commercials [AT DEADLINE, Aug. 25], explained last week that its move was "purely precautionary" and "prosecution," was not contemplated.

Nathan Zucker, FPA president, told a news conference in New York that the association recognizes the networks have "a legal right to produce commercials and programs on tape" but at the same time, FPA members are concerned about "the possible illegal use of that right."

Mr. Zucker reported that a group of FPA representatives told Robert A. Bicks and Maurice Silverman of the Justice Dept. anti-trust division during a meeting on Aug. 22 that the 35 producers of film commercials, programs and documentary films belonging to FPA were "apprehensive that the vertical integration of network control over broadcast time, outlets, programs, equipment and now advertising messages made on videotape is a threat to independent competition." The FPA spokesmen made the point, Mr. Zucker said, that the "loss leader" principle of selling is "a possible result of such a monopoly."

Mr. Zucker told newsmen that it was possible that networks would "throw in" videotape facilities for commercials as an incentive to sell programs or broadcast time, but under questioning, he would not acknowledge that networks are pursuing this practice at this time. He insisted there could be "a tendency" to implement this practice in the future.

ABA PUTS CANON 35 ON TRIAL

- House of Delegates postpones move to continue ban
- NAB, news groups will have chance to present case

Canon 35 of the Canons of Judicial Ethics of the American Bar Assn. has been put on trial, and by ABA itself.

The ABA House of Delegates, which determines the official position of the organization on all questions of professional and public policy, last week rejected a proposal for a slight amendment that would retain Canon 35's prohibition of cameras and microphones from the courtrooms of the nation. Instead it voted to defer action until a new ABA committee has collected and studied evidence on what actually happens in a court when these modern reporting techniques are admitted.

Robert D. Swezey, executive vice president of WDSU-AM-TV New Orleans, chairman of the NAB Freedom of Information Committee, hailed the action as affording a chance for lawyers, broadcasters and the press, working together in the spirit of good will and cooperation to find answers to the questions involved in coverage of court trials by radio and television and still photographers. "In a message of congratulations on behalf of radio and television broadcasters to the ABA board of governors, which recommended further study before action on Canon 35, and the House of Delegates, which approved that recommendation, Mr. Swezey said: 'Broadcasters stand ready to help the special committee in every possible way.'"

Mr. Swezey, a lawyer and ABA member, might take at least part of the credit for winning the broadcast media a chance to prove their right to join pad-and-pencil reporters in covering court proceedings. Last February at a midwinter meeting of the ABA House of Delegates in Atlanta, he appeared before that body as representative of NAB and the Radio Television News Directors Assn. Following his appearance, the House deferred action on the proposal to perpetuate the courtroom ban on cameras and microphones until its annual meeting last week in Los Angeles (TRADE ASSNS., March 3).

However, Mr. Swezey said that credit for last week's vote to defer action pending further study belongs chiefly to the individual broadcasters throughout the country who have discussed the problem with lawyers and judges in their own communities, pointing out that the bright lights traditionally associated with motion pictures are unnecessary for modern day television operation and that microphones adequate for courtroom coverage are today so small and inconspicuous as to go virtually unnoticed.

It was the accumulation of many such local educational discussions by many individual broadcasters that brought about ABA's willingness to continue to study the problem and not to vote hastily to maintain the present closed-door policy in perpetuity, he said.

The vote to defer action on Canon 35 until further studies have been conducted was in line with a proposal made by NAB President Hal Fellows the week before. In an address to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mr. Fellows charged that Canon 35 has "hobbled" the right of the public to know what goes on in the courts. He called on ABA to delay action on the proposed amendment to the canon and proposed that top-level representatives of the legal profession, broadcasting, the press and other media be called to discuss the role of cameras and microphones in court reporting (TRADE ASSNS., Aug. 25).

The proposal of the ABA board of governors for a second postponement on the proposed amendment to Canon 35 indicates a change of heart by that group. In February, the board recommended adoption of the amendment. Last Monday (Aug. 25) at the opening session of the House of Delegates annual meeting, the board reported its suggestion for delay.

Jack Krueger, president of Radio Television News Directors Assn., WTMJ-AM-TV Milwaukee, commended the House of Delegates for its decision. He offered RTNDA aid in its study to preserve fair trial.

Earlier, Mr. Krueger had urged RTNDA members to contact ABA delegates with respect to Canon 35 and also suggested to RTNDA's West Coast delegates that they take the issue directly to listeners and viewers on Los Angeles stations with editorials, panel sessions and talks while ABA's House of Delegates was meeting there.

Mr. Krueger pointed out that Edward Ryan, WTOP Washington, head of RTNDA's freedom of information committee and Ted Koop, CBS Washington News and public affairs chief and RTNDA board chairman, have been cooperating with NAB's Freedom of Information Committee in the fight to amend Canon 35. Both groups have worked out a code of ethics and procedures for courtroom broadcast coverage.

Mr. Swezey was commended by Mr. Krueger for his "excellent and unprecedented" work in the fight for free access to court coverage. He called Mr. Swezey's floor argument before the ABA house last February the "greatest single contribution" to the industry's campaign for the right of broadcast and photographic coverage of courtroom proceedings.

Before the vote was taken on the board of governors' recommendation to defer action on Canon 35, Albert E. Jenner Jr., Chicago attorney and a delegate representing the Illinois State Bar Assn., reported on a poll on Canon 35 made by the American College of Trial Lawyers, of which he is president-elect. The ACTL membership of some 900 had been asked to express their position on the NAB suggestion to defer action on Canon 35 until next winter to permit further investigation of the subject. Planning a Radio Station?

To be “in the know” about equipment installation and maintenance… enlist the know-how of professionals!

Equipment for a radio station often represents a substantial and long-term investment. Proper installation and regular maintenance can lengthen equipment life, and assure a greater return on this investment. Hence, the importance of this new brochure, which outlines procedures suggested by experienced engineers for installing and servicing of radio broadcast stations.

Typical installation and maintenance practices for transmitters, towers, transmission lines, ground systems and studio equipment are covered in detail.

It shows you how to install directional and non-directional antenna systems; ground systems; how to check delivery and install the transmitter and the control room equipment. Regardless of the type or size of installation you will find this brochure very helpful.

Yet when the ABA session voted on what House Chairman James L. Shepherd Jr., Houston, called "one of the most important matters ever to come before the House of Delegates," the members showed that they had made their minds up in advance in favor of postponement. Probably they had read the material provided for them by ABA, including a full report of the proceedings of the February meeting that covered the testimony of Mr. Swezey and Elisha Hanson, representing newspaper interests, in opposition to Canon 35 as well as that of proponents of the Canon, plus supplementary literature supplied by NAB, NPPA and American Society of Newspaper Editors.

NEW TV FILM LEVY IS CALLED UNFAIR

- Legal group discusses impact
- Independents would be hit

Recent rulings of the U. S. Treasury Dept. threaten to make life very difficult for the independent tv producer if not to put him out of business altogether. That was the consensus of a panel of one producer and three tax attorneys who discussed "Tax Problems of the Independent Motion Picture and tv Producer" Aug. 26, at a session held in conjunction with the annual convention of the American Bar Assn. in Los Angeles.

Panel members were: Desi Arnaz, president, Desilu Productions, and three tax attorneys, Arthur Melina (Desilu's tax attorney), Lawrence Irel and Harold D. Berkowitz. Discussion simulated what might have occurred seven years ago, with Mr. Arnaz posing as an actor who wants to become a tv producer and is asking the attorneys for advice on tax matters.

When they told him that Treasury agents were insisting that tv film producers must pay taxes on the basis of the estimated overall revenue which their films will produce, including possible reruns as well as the original telecasts, and that in a case now pending the government asserts that no more than 50% of the cost of production may be amortized in the first year, Mr. Arnaz protested that if this is upheld, "we're all out of business." But he hastily added an expression of disbelief that this will be the case [GOVERNMENT, July 28].

"It seems to me that the intent of the tax act is to collect taxes on money that's been earned, and that's all right," he stated. "If these new rulings hold, all the little guys are going to suffer. It may be all right for the big studios, but the independent producers in television will be put out of business. I just don't believe it. I've never found this country to be that unfair."

The general practice of tv producers has been to compute taxes on a cost recovery method, the tax lawyers said. Taxes figured this way are paid on actual receipts in the tax year over the actual expenses for the year. But under the estimated gross receipts method, both expenses and estimated revenue are prorated, for tax purposes, over the estimated length of time this revenue will come in. This tax method was first employed for theatrical motion pictures and has been lately transferred to tv film as well. It is difficult for a tv producer to estimate the gross receipts of his products, the panel agreed.

ABA's 'Gavel' Awards Presented to CBS, NBC

CBS and NBC were among recipients of the first "Gavel Awards" of the American Bar Assn., given for outstanding contributions to public understanding of the American legal and judicial systems. The awards were presented by ABA President Charles S. Ryne Thursday (Aug. 28), at the banquet of the ABA meeting held last week in Los Angeles.

The award to CBS was given for "contribution to public understanding of the roles of lawyers and courts in American society as illustrated by its television productions The Greer Case and The Verdict Is Yours." That to NBC was made for "its contribution to public understanding of the intrinsic values of the American system of law and justice, as depicted in its television productions An Act of Law and American Trial by Jury."

Awards were made by a special ABA committee on awards to media of public information established last year to give recognition to the media of mass information and entertainment for "outstanding published articles, live dramatic productions or motion pictures which increase public understanding of the legal profession and the administration of justice." The committee recommended (and the convention approved) its continuance, with amendments that have been made - a year or two to making it a standing rather than a special committee.

"The recession has affected a number of television and motion picture projects which your committee has had in mind," the ABA standing Committee on public relations Simms, speaking of "Sponsors of the type which would prove acceptable to the association have drastically curtailed budgets. However, our agreement with CBS for the production of a series of television shows dealing with the lawyer is still in effect and the committee has been informed that CBS is anxious to proceed with the series as soon as a sponsor is found for a pilot film." Plans for a tv series based on cases involving the bill of rights and other constitutional questions are also being held in abeyance pending the location of a suitable sponsor, the committee said.

ABA's standing committee on communications, headed by Fred W. Albertson of Dow, Lohnes & Albertson, Washington, D. C., in its report reviewed FCC activities in am, fm and tv broadcasting, including color tv, toll tv and community antenna systems; the commission's activities in the fields of common carriers and overall frequency allocations; development in international communications; legislative actions of the house and senate, and the most important court decisions affecting communications of the past year. The report concluded: "The advent of the International Telecommunication Union Conference (to be held next year in Geneva, Switzerland) has caused a great deal of interest in the subject of frequency allocations and the results of the FCC's investigations in this field will have a profound effect on communications in this country for at least the next decade."

Will you leave these freedoms to your children?

Men have died to leave you these 4 symbols of freedom:
A Holy Bible—symbol of your right to worship as you wish.
(First Amendment, U. S. Constitution)
A door key—your right to lock your door against illegal government force and prying.
(Fourth Amendment, U. S. Constitution)
A pencil—freedom to speak or write what you think, whether you agree with the government or not.
(First Amendment, U. S. Constitution)
And a free ballot—your right to choose the people who represent you in government—your protection against government tyranny.
(Article I, U. S. Constitution)

Half the world is trying to destroy these 4 symbols and what they stand for.
Even in this country, there are people who threaten our freedoms, by trying to give the U. S. government more and more control over American life.
They have a start—already the government runs hundreds of different kinds of business in competition with its own citizens. And you read about proposals that government take over even more.
The electric light and power business, for example. The federal government already runs some of it. And Congress is being pressed to take over still more. Even though every such step leads down the road to socialism, one thing most Americans don't want. If socialism comes to America this way—step by step—you'll never have a chance to vote for or against it. For by that time, government will control your job, your independence, your thinking. Then what freedoms will you be able to pass on to your children?

The tenth annual convention of the Audio Engineering Society will be held Sept. 29-Oct. 3, at the Hotel New Yorker, New York. Among the papers to be read will be a disclosure of recent revisions and improvements in the Westrex stereo disc recording head which is credited with making stereo development in the U. S. possible; a full engineering description of the RCA stereophonic tape cartridge; a method for determining the absolute recording sensitivity of magnetic tape, and a description of a new device, a magnetic groove disc, for broadcast station use. A new feature of the convention will be the first exhibition of professional audio equipment to be sponsored by the society.

Grother Heads Georgia Group;
WLWA (TV), WSB Take Awards

Frank Grother, WSB Atlanta, was elected president of the Georgia Assn. of Broadcasters at its Aug. 24-26 meeting, held at St. Simons Island. He succeeds John W. Lack Jr., WDUN Clayton, as president.

RALPH EDWARDS, WGGS Tifton, was elected first vice president; George Patton, WBML Macon, second vice president, and Paul Reid, WBBH Fitzgerald, secretary-treasurer. Named to the board were James Hicks, WRDW Augusta; Charles McClure, WGVG Columbus; Bill Keller, WGOV Valdosta; Roscoe Ledford, WVOP Vidalia, and Mr. Jacobs.

GAB awards for the state "Deathless Weekend" campaign were presented to Harry LeBrun, on behalf of WLWA (TV) Atlanta and Mr. Gaither on behalf of WSB.

Recent T. Wasilewski, NAB government relations manager, told the Aug. 25 luncheon one of the most active sessions of Congress had adjourned without passage of any measure affecting broadcasting.

"When a Congress spends two years investigating everything from loud commercials to music programming without adopting legislation completely in the best interests of broadcasting, I consider it a successful session," he said, listing pay TV, alcoholic beverage advertising ban, sports antitrust exemption and bills to amend the Communications Act as items affecting radio-TV.

Mr. Wasilewski urged broadcasters to maintain contact with their congressmen and senators. "You are an important man, both as a citizen and as a broadcaster, to your elected representative in Congress," he said. "Nine times out of ten he appreciates frequent contact with both you and your personnel. He recognizes the importance of the broadcast media. Most of you are more important than you think."

"Just as your congressman has obligations to you, whether or not you voted for him, so likewise do you have a most serious obligation to him and your audience. The fact that broadcasting stations are used so extensively by political candidates gives to the broadcaster the unique opportunity of demonstrating his innate character to these [congressmen]."

You get better pictures with Du Pont film

The photo above is an actual enlargement of a single 16 mm frame from a newsreel shot on Du Pont Type 931 Film early in the morning after a light plane crash near Portland, Oregon.

KGW-TV counts on 930 and 931 to get the news on the air fast!

Richard Ross, News Director of KGW-TV, Portland, Oregon, says that his station has used Du Pont film for newsreels since it started operations in December, 1956. "Despite some rough assignments, it has never let us down," says Mr. Ross about Du Pont Rapid Reversal Film. "It was certainly a powerful factor in our news programs having been listed by the American Research Bureau as the top multi-weekly news program in several consecutive rating periods.

"One of the reasons we get our news on the air so fast is the rapid drying time of Du Pont 930 and 931. They dry at least five minutes sooner and those five minutes mean smoother editing, more professional treatment of the coverage."

Portland has frequent rains during the winter and spring, with dull skies, early darkness and very poor lighting conditions. "We find that 931 film has the necessary speed, resolution and contrast to make good, usable pictures under extreme conditions. With the added bonus of fast processing, you can see why Du Pont is one of the vital tools in our operation," concludes Mr. Ross.

For more information on Du Pont films for every TV need, contact the nearest Du Pont Sales Office or write Du Pont Photo Products Department, 2432-A Nemours Building, Wilmington 98, Delaware. In Canada: Du Pont Company of Canada (1956) Limited, Toronto.

NAB Modifies Rules For Voice of Democracy

Rules governing the 12th annual Voice of Democracy scriptwriting contest have been revised to provide one national winner out of four semi-finalists, instead of four national co-winners as in past contests. The contest is sponsored by NAB and Electronic Industries Assn.

The top winner will receive a $1,500 scholarship and $1,500 for his school, and $1,000 for his state broadcaster. Over 30 state groups have sponsored the contest and will present $500 scholarships to its journalism school as part of the school's 50th anniversary celebration.

Each state winner will be given an all-expense trip to Washington next February for the national award ceremonies. The contest is open to 10th through 12th grade students in all public, private and parochial schools. Contest material has been sent to 28,000 schools. Each contestant writes a three-to-five minute broadcast script on the theme, "I Speak for Democracy," delivering the script orally in school competition. Community, county and state eliminations follow. The contest is endorsed by the U. S. Office of Education.

These state broadcaster associations are participating: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland-D. Hardesty Traces Radio Success

Big growth in radio in recent years has taken place because of better management and disappearance of absentee owners, John F. Hardesty, vice president-general manager of RAB, told the Columbus (Ga.) Advertising Club Aug. 21. Mr. Hardesty described absentee owner as "self-styled chief radio station executive who shouldn't be in the radio business at all . . . like the American buffalo, these pseudo-media men have gradually faded away. In their place, fortunately, have come aggressive, radio-only men who are willing to devote their full energies to the furtherance of the medium."

Grand Forks Mother can't risk being a "pioneer" when she shops...

She's always satisfied most with a brand that's made a name for itself!

"I MADE IT..." and I make sure that the best materials and workmanship go into my product with my name on it. Naturally, people blame me if my product is unsatisfactory, and they stop buying it. I can't risk turning out anything that may be only 'second-best.'

"I SOLD IT..." recommended it because the name it has made for itself tells me it's one of the best, most up-to-date products in its field. In fact, a good brand name is the best guarantee my customers can have when they buy. And for me, too... I know they'll buy it again.

"I BOUGHT IT..." because it's an advertised brand I can trust completely. I just won't risk my family's welfare on some product I don't know anything about—even when they say it's 'just as good.' I feel safer, somehow, when I stick to a brand I know I can depend on.

LAKE WASHINGTON—This is a sequence from KING-TV Seattle videotape coverage of a mishap during the Gold Cup hydroplane race on Lake Washington, Wash. KING Seattle d.j. Bill Muncey was driving the hydroplane Miss Thriftway at 145 mph when its rudder came off. The hydroplane rammed a 45-ft. Coast Guard boat (I), imbedding itself in the steel hull. A coast guardsmen (o), below deck when the crash occurred, struggled to free himself as the two vessels sink. The guardsmen, who suffered a broken leg, is pictured by KING-TV’s VTR as he gets free and is picked up by another boat. Flag still flying (r), the Coast Guard boat submerges. Miss Thriftway was still imbedded in the boat when they were raised two days later. Within minutes of telecasting the accident KING-TV aired it again on tape. Gold Cup officials were able to judge the race through a KING-TV monitor in the official barge. (In last year’s Gold Cup Mr. Muncey was disqualified for hitting a buoy; he later was declared winner when judges saw KING-TV film that showed the d.j. had not hit anything.) A staff of 50, eight tv cameras, the VTR and a miniature Dage tv camera were used by KING-TV in its eight-hour coverage of the race.

GARDEN TEAM ON WINS FOR BUD

WINs New York and Madison Square Garden announced an agreement Thursday (Aug. 28) for play-by-play broadcasts this season of all home and away games of the Garden-owned New York Rangers (hockey) and New York Knicks (basketball). The unusual $200,000-plus radio package has been purchased entirely by Anheuser-Busch Inc. (Budweiser beer). St. Louis, through D’Arcy Adv., St. Louis. The games no longer are being carried by WPIX (TV) New York. A few of the Ranger games will be seen Saturday afternoons on CBS-TV and a few of the Knicks’ on NBC-TV Sunday afternoons, but there will be no tv exposure in New York. Garden officials said this is the most comprehensive broadcast transaction in the Garden’s 33-year history, while WINS claimed the Budweiser buy is the largest sports purchase in volume of hours and dollars in the history of New York radio.

WRCA-TV REVISES RATE CARD

WRCA-TV New York has announced details of its new rate card (No. 18), describing it as “a new simplified rate card, which makes it easier for agency timebuyers to purchase broadcast time.” IT IS EFFECTIVE SEPT. 15.

There are no appreciable differences in rates under the new card as compared to rate card No. 17A, issued in April 1957. Examples of the simplified format include the elimination of special rates for weekends; reduction in the number of sales plans through dropping of “The Five Plan”; establishment of a single rate for daytime programs between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.; setting up of an identical rate protection period of three months for all station breaks and all participations.

RADAR JOINS THE STAFF

Broadcast stations, always weather-minded, are becoming increasingly professional in their techniques. Latest evidence: a rash of stations setting up their own radar systems to predict weather changes.

WMT-AM-TV Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and WFAA-AM-TV Dallas, Tex., are on the air with Collins Radio Co.’s converted aircraft weather radar, and WCCO-AM-TV Minneapolis-St. Paul has purchased Bendix gear. WBKB (TV) Chicago, WBRZ (TV) Baton Rouge, La., and WWIL Ft. Lauderdale are soon to follow, also using Collins equipment. Collins has been negotiating with KSTP-AM-TV Minneapolis-St. Paul, although that organization reports a planned trial-run of “a composite unit of our own assembly.” RCA also has begun offering its radar facilities to broadcasters.

DATELINES

NANTUCKET—WJAR-TV Providence, R. I., WEEI Boston and WBZ Boston were among the stations that sent staffers to the scene of the Nantucket, Mass., plane crash Aug. 15 in which 23 people died and 11 were injured.

George Clark, cameraman with WJAR-TV made an instrument landing at Nantucket Airport soon after the crash, after flying through bad weather. He filmed the scene and, after being forced back to Nantucket once due to bad flying conditions, got his footage back to WJAR-TV for broadcast at 7:13:08.

WEEI newsmen Ed Myers reached the accident scene about 4 a.m. He recorded on-the-spot interviews that were used by CBS as well as WEEI.

WBZ had newsmen on the scene and in addition broadcast a beeper appeal from Nantucket Police Chief Wendell Howe Aug. 18 asking listeners to help locate the nose wheel of the crashed plane. The wheel was needed by authorities investigating the cause of the accident. The part was turned in at 9 p.m. that day and the police chief made a public statement attributing the missing part’s return to WBZ.

HARTFORD—Newsmen Jim Burns of WDRC Hartford, Conn., took a tape recorder along when he accompanied a man who was testing the legality of the toll on the local Bulkeley Bridge. The driver of the car challenged the toll by driving over the bridge without paying the 25 cent toll and was promptly arrested by East Hartford police. Mr. Burns’ recording of the exchange between the driver and the police was aired on several subsequent newscasts.

MYRTLE BEACH—Vacationing WBT-WBTV (TV) Charlotte, N. C., staffer Clyde McLean arrived at Myrtle Beach, S.C., just before Air Force jet trainer crashed nearby. Four people were killed and three were injured. Mr. McLean immediately telephoned a report to the stations and to the other Jefferson Standard Broadcasting Co. station, WBT-WBTV (TV) Florence. S. C. CBS Inc. Officially Assumes Ownership of WCAU Stations

Ownership of WCAU-AM-FM-TV Philadelphia was transferred officially to CBS Inc. last Friday (Aug 30). CBS acquired the stations last winter for $20 million from WCAU Inc., a subsidiary of the Bulletin Co. [At Deadline, Dec. 23, 1957], after FCC approval last month.

President Arthur Hull Hayes of CBS Radio and President Merle S. Jones of the CBS-TV stations division, heading the CBS delegation at the transfer, noted that WCAU was the first radio station to become affiliated with the CBS Radio network (September 1927) and that WCAU-TV was first CBS-TV affiliate (March 1948). Donald W. Thornton will continue to be in charge of both radio and tv operations.

The WCAU package station sale was the biggest in history. The $20 million broke down to $15.6 million for the stations and $4.4 million for land and buildings. WCAU is on 1210 kc with 50 kw. WCAU-FM is on 98.1 mc with 10 kw, WCAU-TV is on ch. 10. The transfer brings CBS up to its maximum ownership in both radio and television. It already had radio and vhf tv operations in New York, Los Angeles, Chicago and St. Louis; am-fm operations in Boston and San Francisco, and uhf tv stations in Milwaukee and Hartford, Conn.

Parent of WLAC-AM-TV Sold

Clint Murchison, Texas oilman and financier, last week signed final papers acquiring working control of the Life & Casualty Insurance Co. of Nashville, Tenn., owner of WLAC and 50% owner of WLAC-TV Nashville, Tenn. Price for 1.2 million shares (5 million outstanding) was reported to be $40 million. Paul Mountcastle, chairman of the insurance company, also owns 37.4% of WATE-AM-TV Knoxville, Tenn. Mr. Mountcastle remains with Life & Casualty.

KOOL-TV and KOLD-TV Connected

KOOL-TV Phoenix and KOLD-TV Tucson have been linked into a joint sales package, according to Tom Chauncey, president of both stations. Known as The Arizona Television Network, they now can be bought as a single package at no extra cost for the interconnecting facilities. The two CBS-affiliated stations estimate their combined coverage at 1,268,455 people.

WRC-WAVE Hook-Up Saves Day For Humphrey and Indiana Rally

WRC Washington and WAVE Louisville combined forces to write a happy ending to what had been a pressing problem at a Democratic rally in Indiana. Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) was scheduled to be the featured speaker at an Aug. 23 meeting of the Indiana Democratic Editorial Assn., meeting in French Lick, but was unable to attend because the 85th Congress still was in session.

Using the facilities and personnel of WRC and WAVE, Sen. Humphrey was able to deliver his address and answer questions over a microphone just off the Senate Chambers. And, as a bonus made possible by the two-way radio hook-up, seven other Democratic members of Congress were on hand to answer questions of the 1,000 assembled in French Lick.

Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler served as moderator at the Indiana end, where the “broadcast” was heard over a public address system. In Washington, Sen. Humphrey served as m.c. as the Indiana newsmen also questioned Democratic Sens. Mike Mansfield (Mont.), John Sparkman (Ala.), Frank Church (Idaho), Stuart Symington (Mo.) and George Smathers (Fla.), in addition to Indiana Democratic Congressmen Winfield Denton and Ray Madden. The Washington participants used earphones to hear questions by Democrats at the Indiana rally.

The special hook-up, “on-the-air” for 65 minutes, cost the Democrats approximately $500.

WGN Cancels VTR Syndication Planned for 'Ding Dong School'

WGN-TV Chicago last week temporarily abandoned plans for syndicating Ding Dong School and other properties on Ampex videotape recording facilities because of "technical difficulties."

Ward L. Quaai, vice president and general manager of WGN-AM-TV, attributed the decision to the "delay in the development and distribution centers. After careful study we consider the responsibility of duplicating tapes in quantities required for such an undertaking, on a Monday through Friday basis for a period of 52 weeks, too great." He added that while WGN-TV has two Ampex VR-1000 units, "we have decided that this or any similar project at this time would severely overtax the facilities and manpower of our station."

Mr. Quaai reported mounting agency interest in the Ampex videotape recording method, requiring an expenditure of time and effort and "exploratory" use of WGN-TV units, and increasing utilization of the machine "in day to day operations." He said syndication plans would be undertaken again when a videotape duplication-distribution center is set up in Chicago.

STUDIOS SIGN LIVE MUSIC PACT

- New guild to employ musicians for portion of tv series
- AFM officials charge sellout to major film producers

Major motion picture studios have agreed, for the first time, to use live musicians instead of sound tracks for at least a portion of their tv film series, under an agreement completed last week with the newly formed Musicians Guild of America.

The collective bargaining contract, announced jointly Aug. 28 by MGA Chairman Cecil F. Read and Charles Boren, industrial relations vice president of Ass'n. of Motion Picture Producers, will go into effect Sept. 3, provided it is ratified tonight (Sept. 1) by the MGA membership. MGA headquarters was confident it would be ratified.

The contract will permit employment of musicians by Hollywood's major motion picture makers for the first time since mid-February, when the American Federation of Musicians, ordered its members not to work for these producers following a breakdown in negotiations to replace the agreement that expired Feb. 19 [PERSONNEL RELATIONS, Feb. 24].

In the intervening months, a group of Hollywood musicians who had protested against AFM policies, notably that of demanding payments by picture producers and other employers into the Musicians' Performance Trust Funds, broke away from AFM and formed a new union, MGA, under leadership of Mr. Read, former vice president of Hollywood Local 47. Disagreement with AFM philosophy had cost him membership two years before [PERSONNEL RELATIONS, March 31].

MGA had petitioned the National Labor Relations Board for an election by some 1,200 musicians who had been employed by major studios to choose either AFM or MGA as their bargaining agent. MGA won the election [AT DEADLINE, July 14]. MGA then began negotiating with the picture producers and after five weeks has secured a contract covering employment of musicians by Allied Artists, Columbia, Walt Disney Productions, MCA, Paramount, 20th Century-Fox, Universal and Warner Brothers.

Wage increases ranging from 14% to 31% are specified, setting scales of $55 per man per three-hour session if 35 musicians or more are employed, $57.75 for 30-34 musicians, $60.50 for 24-29, and $63.25 for 11 or fewer. The old rate was $61, regardless of the number of musicians used in scoring a picture. For sidelinemen, the new rate is $30.93 per day, up from $27.13. Comparable increases were given arrangers, orchestrators, copyists and librarians. The new contract also contains a vacation clause, giving each man the equivalent of four weeks vacation a year.

For tv films, the major studios agreed to record a portion of each series with live musicians, the minimum being set at three hours for each 13 half-hour programs at the rate of $55 per man for the three-hour session. For a series of 39 half-hour shows, nine hours is the minimum employment time for live musicians; for 39 full-hour programs, 18 hours is the minimum.

For the balance of music required for these tv series, the motion picture companies are permitted to use previously recorded sound tracks. For single programs such as 90-minute shows, pilot films and spectaculars, there can be no mixing of live music and that dubbed from other recordings.

The pact frees employers from payments into the trust fund if theatrical films are sold to television and requires no residual payments to the musicians themselves. It does away with the contract orchestrations maintained by six of the major studios—two of 36 musicians, one of 45 and three of 50, with each man guaranteed pay for 10 hours work a week ($160) on a one-year contract. The employers were reportedly adamant about the elimination of any such requirement, which was said to have cost the studios $800,000-$1 million a year for music paid for but not used in these times of reduced schedules of motion picture production.

A union shop is specified in lieu of the closed shop maintained by AFM. That is, a motion picture producer may hire any musician he wishes, but the musician must within 30 days become a member of MGA.

Eliot Daniel, president of AFM Local 47, blasted the MGA agreement as a "tremendous sellout of the principles for which musicians have been striving for years." He said the pact "sacrifices the right to job security and guaranteed employment. . . . It surrenders the musicians right in the product he produces, so he can now record himself right out of his livelihood. . . . It breaches the protective wall in tv films and provides that, in a few hours work, a musician completes a whole series of 39 films and the balance of his income. Cecil Read has handed millions of dollars a year in musicians' pay to the producers who played him for a sucker."

MGA promptly labeled the Daniel charges as "nonsense." "What good is job security," one member asked, "if it covers only 273 musicians? And what rights are being surrendered by the musician who will himself receive more pay for his work? And what kind of 'protection wall' was the AFM agreement under which 95% of all tv filmed programs were made without using any live music at all?"

"Sure, we'd like to have obtained residuals and other advantages," he said. "But we're not unhappy over having gotten a raise in scale and our foot in the door in tv for the first time and a chance for musicians to go back to work in motion pictures for the first time in more than six months."

Negotiating committees headed by Mr. Boren and Mr. Read included additionally, the producers: Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount; Steve Broidy, Allied Artists; B. B. Kahane, Columbia; Bonar Dyer, Walt Disney; Saul Rittenberg, MGM; Lew Schreiber, 20th Century-Fox; Morris Weiner, Universal-International; E. L. DePatie, Warner Bros., with Mendel Silberberg, Maurice Benjamin, Alfred P. Chami and Ben Batchelder representing AFMPP. MGA representatives, in addition to Mr. Read and Mr. Boren, were: Justin Gordon, Ned Nash, Larry Sullivan, Harry Swerdlow and Richard Perkins.

MGA is currently petitioning for an NLRB election among musicians employed by independent movie producers, with AFM opposing the election. [PERSONNEL RELATIONS, Aug. 11]. Thus, a new union was announced intention to apply for similar elections in network radio and tv, tv film production and sound recordings.

Hereman D. Kenin, president of AFM, criticized a clause which "losses out the window the guaranteed annual wage" for musicians. "Moreover," Mr. Kenin said, "it appears the guild is also unauthorized unbridled use on television of music scored for theatrical films without any payments to either individual musicians or the trust fund."

IBEW Actions in Mobile

Rule Fair by NLRB Examiner

Activities of International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers members involving contacts with advertisers using WKRG-AM-TV Mobile, Ala., were not unfair labor practices under federal law, an examiner of the National Labor Relations Board held Aug. 25 in a recommendation to the board.

The trial examiner, William F. Scharnikow, held extensive hearings into charges by the stations that the union "attempted to force WKRG-TV Inc. to recognize, bargain with and enter a contract with the union." He held the union's "sole object and motive for its action was to protect its bargaining position with competing union stations by increasing their advertising revenues through a transfer of WKRG's advertising and, by this showing of advantage in operating under union conditions, to discourage the non-union station to preserve for the union stations' employers their existing wages and working conditions."

Examiner Scharnikow contended the evidence showed the union at no time since its loss of representation had approached WKRG in an attempt to secure either recognition or a contract. Testimony indicated the union lost WKRG representation when station technicians rejected IBEW as bargaining agent in 1957 in an NLRB election. IBEW opposed adoption by the stations of a "combo operation" with advertisers using independent movie producers, posted bulletins at other union halls, distributed auto stickers ("WKRG—Radio—Television—Non-Union"), and circulated post cards to be mailed advertisers.

Filing of exceptions with the board by its general counsel is anticipated. A board ruling is expected later in the year.

World Musicians Federation Adopts Recording Policies

American Federation of Musicians has reported that a six-point proposal of mutual aid against the international inroads of mechanical music and its widespread substitution for live music and musicians was adopted at the Aug. 15-16 meeting of the International Federation of Musicians in Zurich, Switzerland.

Details of the proposal were reported by Stanley Ballard, special representative, who attended the conference, to Herman D. Kenin, AFM president. The proposal was adopted by the United States and Canada and 10 other countries, including Spain, Italy, France, Austria, Germany, Switzerland, Great Britain, Sweden, Denmark and Norway.

Some of the proposal highlights: In event of a strike or lockout involving any of the signatories, all parties agreed not to accept employment for members in the making of recordings or an employer involved in the strike or lockout; signatories agreed not to make recorded music for "general purposes" (that is, the making of a tape recording not to be heard by the general public but intended for dubbing on more than one motion picture film, or into a film and other devices such as records or transcriptions); parties agreed to try to secure in their bargaining agreements clauses forbidding employment in the making of recorded music except for specific purposes (that is, a recording that constitutes a final product); signatories agreed to attempt to secure in collective bargaining agreements a provision that no sound track for a motion picture will be made outside the country in which the major portion of the film was produced.

SAG Asserts TV Series Producer Has Benefit of Unpaid GI Labor

Have they been paid or haven't they? That's the controversy resulting from participation by American soldiers stationed abroad in a series of filmed television programs, The Citizen Soldier. To be sponsored commercially.

Screen Actors Guild President Leon Ames has written to Congressman Joe Holt (R-Calif.) complaining that the show's producer, R. W. Alcorn, "... apparently is getting the free use of American soldiers" who "are receiving no salary as actors but are getting $9 a day for expenses." Mr. Ames goes on to quote a letter received from an actor which states: "... when a series such as The Citizen Soldier occupies sponsored time on television stations, it takes the place of another series that might have employed hundreds of American actors and craftsmen."

The word from an Army spokesman, however, is that the troops participating are doing so on their own time and have worked out their own remuneration arrangements with the producer.

SAG Pulls Out of Deals To Share Costs With AFTRA

Screen Actors Guild notified American Federation of Television & Radio Artists that after Nov. 30, SAG no longer will share expenses in three branch offices operated by AFTRA. SAG and AFTRA have had agreements in six cities under which AFTRA services SAG contracts with SAG sharing a part of the cost.

Bitterness between the two unions has been accentuated in recent months over the issue of videotape jurisdiction. An SAG spokesman told Broadcasting: "We decided on this move solely because of lack of activity in these cities—Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Cincinnati. We felt it was uneconomic and useless to continue to arrange this movement." He said the action is "unrelated" to the union's differences with AFTRA over videotape jurisdiction. SAG still has a similar arrangement with AFTRA in Boston, Chicago and San Francisco and maintains its own offices in Detroit, Hollywood and New York. SAG, the spokesman said, will attempt to serve members in Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati after Nov. 30 from the New York office of the guild. SAG members in the three cities affected will not be required to pay dues after Nov. 30.

Donald Conaway, executive director of AFTRA, declined to comment on SAG's move. AFTRA's petition before the National Labor Relations Board for an election among members on videotape will be heard by the NLRB in New York on Sept. 30.

SAG to Have National Meeting

Screen Actors Guild will hold a national conference of member delegates and executives of its branches Sept. 8-9 in Hollywood. Representatives from New York, Chicago, Detroit, Boston and San Francisco, in addition to Hollywood, will meet with SAG officers and board members to consider the present organizational structure of the union, the inter-relation of its branches and other problems, particularly the videotape jurisdictional dispute with AFTRA which will be heard by NLRB in New York on Sept. 25 (see story above).

PERSONNEL RELATIONS SHORT

Writers Guild of America, East, has been designated as bargaining agent by continuity writers at WCAU-AM-FM-TV Philadelphia. Guild said it has asked station management for early meeting to begin contract negotiation.
Many-Faceted Campaign
For KYW-TV's 'Early Show'

A campaign encompassing nearly every advertising channel is underway on KYW-TV Cleveland, Ohio, to promote today's (Sept. 1) Early Show premiere (Mon.-Fri. 5:45-7:20 p.m.). The program, that includes MGM and RKO feature films, moves into the slot vacated by Six O'Clock Adventure.

As well as an on-air saturation campaign featuring live programs, animation, slides, film clips, ID's and cross-plugging with KYW, KYW-TV is organizing a military parade in which fraternal organizations, Boy Scouts and a KYW float fitted with transmission equipment will take part.

Following are some of the results of KYW-TV promotion chief Robert Nashick's and assistant Steve Halpern's activities over the past three months: The giving of presents to babies born in KYW-TV's coverage area between 5:45-6 p.m. today; distribution of 30,000 bookmarks to local libraries containing Early Show ads; a contest with a color tv set as first prize; 250,000 Early Show matchbooks; 3,500 colored magazine-rack cards; posters inside and outside buses; movie trailers and life-size cut-outs of movie stars in Cleveland's Terminal Tower lobby. Twelve models on motor-scooters will tour the city with advertising matter; another model, accompanied by a chimpanzee, will give out Early Show circulars. A girl with a hand cart load of bricks stops at downtown intersections and lays the bricks out in a pattern. When a crowd gathers she drops an Early Show banner. A telephone service asks people to call to hear a recorded message; a 20-ft. banner is displayed over a large shopping center.

Money for KTBC Flying Saucers

A tie-in with a local airplane dealer, plus paper pie-plates, are the ingredients in the KTBC Austin, Tex., "Flying Saucer" promotion. A load of plates, each inscribed with the amount of dollars it is worth, is dropped from an airplane over a section of the city. KTBC reports that such was the success of its on-air announcement of the stunt that, on the first day the money-redeemable discs were dropped, all except one were returned to the station. Times and areas that the "flying saucers" are to be dropped in are not announced until the plane is over the area.

Prior to the drawing WDGY announced 6-8 times a day that entry blanks could be picked up at Mileage or Direct Service stations. As well as a round trip flight for two to Las Vegas the winner received $200 and 10 days at a Las Vegas luxury hotel. In another drawing, a $50 gift book to be used at the service stations was given away.

An end-of-the-month sale has been conducted by WGL Fort Wayne, Ind. The station sold packages of 10 one-minute spots to run one a day over a ten-day period. Big Day for WKY-TV in Fun Park

The owner-operator of Springlake Amusement Park, Oklahoma City, Okla., reportedly credits WKY-TV there for "one of the biggest days in the park's 30-year history," following the station's third annual "Giant Kid's Day." The event, preceded by on-air spots and display advertising, included personal appearances by WKY-TV personnel, remote telecasts, talent shows and a firework display.

Clues in WICC (TV) News

Passwords, announced each night on WICC (TV) Pittsburgh's late news, are the clues to the outlet's "Big 11!" contest in which it is giving away $11,000 in prizes. In the contest's first week WICC reportedly received more than 50,000 entries. Drawings for prizes are made on-camera from the postcard entries. Viewers then are telephoned and asked if they know the password that was revealed the night before. Prizes of merchandising worth $50-

This is the approach taken by WSJS-TV Winston-Salem in its campaign to get set-owners to upgrade their receiving antennas. Both on-air and newspaper ads used the technique, climaxing with the punch line on the "good picture."

LOOK TO THE ROOF FOR THE TROUBLE

A disturbed television viewer about to do violence to his set via a variety of fiendish methods sets the stage for a pitch by WSJS-TV Winston-Salem, N. C. The pitch: its August Antenna Cleanup campaign.

The station explains, with 35 chain break announcements per week plus daily newspaper ads, that the set-owner could more constructively devote his energy to having his antenna repaired or replaced, thus eliminating ghosts, smears, snow, etc. It all started after the station inspected local antennas and found many of them in bad repair. Most of them were two to five years old, and had been installed when only two channels were available. With a proper installation (WSJS-TV recommends an all-channel, rotor model) six can now be received.

The station preceded its public service campaign with a briefing of selected area tv servicemen at a clinic held in conjunction with the Dalton-Hege Co., local radio and tv equipment supplier.

The illustrations and copy in the tv-newspaper campaign (two of them reproduced here) were created by station personnel and feature an announcer from WSJS-TV as the unhappy set owner.
$200 are awarded for correct answers. WIC reports that 84 of the people called have given the password.

Admen in the studio participated in a "Real or Reel" contest in which they had to guess which sections of a program were live or taped to win a 7-day expense-paid trip to Paris. Home viewers also took part in the contest via a format sheet that they checked off and submitted to the station.

Bing Crosby listens as Al Browdy, KCOP (TV) Los Angeles chief engineer, discusses the Ampex videotape recorder, recently installed in the station of which Mr. Crosby is 25% owner. It was familiar ground for the singer who throughout his broadcasting career has constantly utilized tape. In radio, shortly after World War II, Bing Crosby Enterprises began to distribute tape recording equipment made by Ampex Corp.

In 1951, BCE demonstrated its system of videotape recordings. More research brought further improvements, but in 1956 BCE sold its device to Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co., maker of the magnetic tape used for VTR as well as for sound recordings.

Under his new five-year contract with ABC (Networks, June 9), Mr. Crosby will produce pilots for a number of tv series with the probability that some will be done on tape. Pictured (1 to r) are George L. Coleman (25% station owner); Alvin G. Flanagan, KCOP general manager; Mr. Crosby; Kenyon Brown, president, KCOP Television Inc., and Mr. Browdy.

Pie in the face is funny once; after that try a new gag commercial

Dear old, good old radio is proving all over again that it can sell and well. Seems that the auto radio is as common as the auto transmission, and while hubby is wired-in en route to the grist mill, wifey is plugged-in by the dishwasher, each embarked on their daily tasks more or less musically. For, despite the horrendous programming of looney top-turning, radio is there, and you can hear it now.

An attempt to evaluate programming is liable to lead us into the realm of reason, and we'd be immediately out of touch with the whole thing. Instead, let's assume I'm as nutty as you are, and as dedicated to a particular wax-wielder. He's our traffic tranquilizer (between the inbound freeway and the interchange). We listen. We're loyal. And besides, he's what we get on the pushbutton set and we're just the least bit interested. So as to how to change it. So we begin our day with Daytime Dick and his Dizzy Discs (he's on K-something-or-other, that first button on the left.) In addition to the absence of choice, we endure him because he's breezy, he plays some music now and then, and achieve a totally admirable degree of sprightly good humor at this miserable morning hour. He's a regular passenger in our car with his steady bits of Bufferin brightness, and we've become accustomed to his pace.

You might say that we like him, but I wouldn't want to be quoted on that.

Perhaps his greatest hold on us is that he's followed by the news, but in all fairness, I'll admit a certain patterned patronage that includes abiding his sponsors, and that's the whole point of this piece. We recognize that to stay in business requires commercials (but so many?). I should add that Daytime Dick handles these commercial pitches consummately—he's had so much experience. He weaves commercial nonsense into his program with considerable skill, blending his own inanity with that of the sponsor. But suddenly the whole zany business comes to a grinding halt and abruptly comes a capper—the recorded audio-gag spot.

Judging by their numbers, the audio-gag spot must have a reasonable record of effectiveness. Its premise is the short-span creation of a comedy situation—Everyone-Likes-a-Chuckle-Now-and-Then sort of thing. It's kind of aural custard-in-the-kisser, and like any pie-in-the-face, the first pastry pasting is most impressive.

Unfortunately, this new school of audio-gag must perform repeat itself. The things cost a bit to produce, and like all recorded spots take considerable use to amortize. Unlike most spots these gags grow very old very fast. Let's recognize that the fault here is not with the comedy drama spot itself, but rather its application in the radio requirement of repetition.

As an example, imagine, if you will, your reaction after listening to the following for the 48th time:

(Spot begins with completely cuckoo sound effect.) Banshee wails rises above rhythmics sounds of garbage disposal unit perforating unit proprietor's friends. In the distance we hear the staccato of an automatic starter de-energizing a dying battery. Wail subsides, disposal swallows, battery dies, and voice (remotely Brooklyn) scratchily asks: "Didja hear somethin', Moitie?" Ratchet sound (5 sec.) as Moitie turns up her hearing aid, replies, "Nuttin." Boston Symphony Orchestra takes three bars followed by the overture to Gangbusters. "That's funny," says Brooklyn, "I'da swore I held a wobbling thrush!" (10 sec. of meaningful silence). "Don't woible," says Moitie, "avoid the thrush ... only 84 shopping days already 'til Christmas!" (Sound effect of buffalo-stamped and crunching human bones, up ... and out).

Now most audio gags are considerably more inventive and fortunately more amusing than this non-existent comedy drama spot. But there is, as we're well aware, the area of concern. At first blush it's possibly an amusing bit of business but for how long does the blush remain on the thrush? A funny story is as hilarious the first time as it is turgid the tenth time.

Our fellow-sufferer, Daytime Dick, has become so fed-to-the-teeth with certain audio gags that he plays them at a speed faster than as recorded and uses the time thus saved to direct an appeal to the advertiser and agency for a new spot. He notes in his plea that the listener might write in beseeching a cease-and-desist on the overdone spots.

An agency embarked on a humorous series does well to budget for less time, if necessary, to allow for sufficient subject change. I imagine the effectiveness curve, if charted, of a clever audio gag would be rather alpine, peaking quickly and as suddenly sliding down the other side. I suggest also, that this highly sophisticated area of repetitive humor requires, from concept to scheduling, much more than itinerant talent. Aside from the advertiser's negative image, when the gag becomes a nag, consider the talent.

One known and capable comic has expressed his concern over a radio saturation campaign in Chicago featuring him in a recorded spot. "I'm deadin' Mrs. O'Leary's cow in Chicago," he moans. "Too much of a good thing.

Situation comedy spots are the "new sound" in radio commercials, and sometimes brighter than the latter they interrupt. The first few times around they have a fresh appeal, but they're fragile figments and not subject to too much handling. The clever audio-gag sounds just great in a sales meeting, and sounds pretty awful in the day-in-day-out repeat business that is radio.

Jack Roberts, b. April 26, 1920, Portland, Ore. Came to Southern California after serving four years as Air Force pilot. Trained in Art Center School of Los Angeles (where he met his wife, Dian). Has been directing Carson/Roberts' creative department since 1947. Awards include congressional citation in American Institute of Graphic Arts' "50 Best Ads of the Year" in 1954, again in '57, and Advertising Assn. of the West awards on two occasions. Has received several awards from Art Directors Club of Los Angeles, served as president of that organization in 1954. Whether advertising problem is visual or aural, Roberts is innovator—he believes that "white space" in radio might be enough of departure to build sales. Agency v.p. and his wife have four children.
A Private Affair

IF Robert Sarnoff is serious about his proposal for an inter-network rotational system of covering political conventions, he chose an impractical way of advancing it last week.

By making a public announcement of the proposal, he has automatically stamped it as the Bob Sarnoff plan. We cannot imagine CBS or ABC eagerly embracing an arrangement with that title. Suffice it to say the plan should be embraced or at the very least given serious consideration by all networks. There is a terrible waste of air time in prolonged, all-network coverage of any special event, whatever its national importance. This fact was unmistakably demonstrated during both party conventions of 1956.

The public would be served as well — indeed better — if networks took turns in broadcasting live the proceedings of conventions and other big events.

But to reach such an arrangement would require a higher degree of cooperation among networks than can be attained by the simple wishing for it. It is the kind of arrangement which is more apt to be achieved by quiet and private negotiation than by a unilateral statement issued to the press.

It is our suggestion that Mr. Sarnoff's proposal is good enough to deserve survival despite its inauspicious start. Publicly, the less said about it for the time being, the better. Privately, high network executives ought to begin cooperative discussions to determine if it can be brought about.

Voice That's Needed

BROADCAST journalism won an important victory last week when the American Bar Assn. decided to look into the experiences of courts that have admitted cameras and microphones.

The whole legal approach to the broadcast media has been changing in recent months. Prejudices of older members of the bar are being dispelled as broadcasters acquaint lawyers and judges in their own communities with the truth about electronic journalism. Intensive grass-roots activity is given much of the credit for the ABA's decision to review the record of radio-tv coverage.

NAB's Freedom of Information Committee, led by Chairman Robert D. Swezey, WDSU-AM-TV New Orleans, sparked the movement. Last winter Mr. Swezey, an ABA member, stated the industry case in an appearance on the floor of ABA's House of Delegates, which then deferred action on a proposal to ignore media progress and to reaffirm Canon 35 bans.

The fight for access to court trials is still to be waged. A nine-man ABA committee will be named by Ross L. Malone, new association president, to build up a record of electronic experience in courtrooms. This committee should include ABA members with an understanding of media —such men as Mr. Swezey, Judge Justin Miller, ex-NAB president; Elshire Hanson, counsel for newspaper interests, and Judge Walter M. Bastian, of the U. S. Court of Appeals, District of Columbia.

In making their position known to the ABA membership, broadcasters again demonstrated their power to influence those who control public affairs. A few weeks ago their back-home contacts with Senators and Congressmen played a powerful role in the senatorial burial of legislation that would have given sports promoters blackout powers over broadcasting.

The next obvious step is plain. Broadcasters must acquaint Mr. Swezey's Freedom of Information Committee with local experiences in covering trials via microphone and camera. Then ABA will be given, for the first time, a record of electronic progress that will demonstrate the ability of radio-tv to promote justice by acquainting the public with judicial processes.

Canada's Stride Forward

CANADA, our good neighbor to the north, is veering closer, step by step, to the American Plan to free competitive broadcasting. Any day now, Parliament is expected to enact legislation separating the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., the state-monopoly, from its regulatory control over the dominion's private broadcasting operations. Created will be a new Board of Broadcast Governors — the parallel of our FCC. CBC will continue to operate its stations and networks, under government franchise, but it won't regulate its private competition. Indeed, CBC itself will face new competition because its television monopolies in such key markets as Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Halifax, Vancouver and Winnipeg will be broken.

The new BBG will not only pass on new applications for television and radio, but will also consider applications for networks and network affiliations, heretofore reserved to CBC unto itself. This has meant that the U. S. network programs channeled into Canada are exclusively on CBC.

It is not for us to tell our good neighbors what to do, but there does exist a community of interest that transcends usual limits, since so much of the Canadian programming product originates in the United States. The CBC divorce is a most encouraging initial move, just as was the creation of the commercial ITA in Britain.

But there can be no full-scale, free, competitive enterprise in broadcasting in Canada — or anywhere else — until the state itself gets out of the business of broadcasting.

Little Drops of Water

BROADCASTERS and set manufacturers can look to the harried movie industry for a neat lesson on legislative liaison. Congress has approved elimination of the 10% tax on movie admissions to and including the first $1 of the admission price. This in the face of stalwart administration opposition to any reduction in excise taxes. The tax originally was 20%.

Meanwhile, the efforts of broadcasters and manufacturers alike proved futile in convincing Congress that removing the 10% excise tax on all-channel tv receivers would help the suffering uhf operators and stem the mortality tide. Removal of this tax on all-band sets would about equalize the price of taxed vhf-only sets and would encourage manufacturers to make all-band sets.

Why did the broadcaster-manufacturer effort fail and the movie campaign succeed? The movie people never stopped in their campaigning, whereas the broadcaster-manufacturer pitches were sporadic. The movie people worked incessantly with both Senate and House tax committeemen on the theme that elimination of the tax was essential to the survival of many movie houses. The job was coordinated through the Council of Motion Picture Organizations (COMPO). The campaign began in 1952. In 1954, after a presidential veto the preceding year, they succeeded in cutting the then 20% tax in half, with tariffs up to 50 cents exempted. The savings of these cumulative tax cuts are estimated at $200 million yearly.

Is the plight of the uhf broadcaster less severe than that of the theatre owner? Some 150 uhf construction permits have been turned in and only about 90 uhfs are on the air.

Irrespective of the outcome of current deliberations over tv allocations — all necessarily long range — something must be done to alleviate the uhf problem. The tax equalizer is the soundest plan offered. It has been pursued for some three years. The all-out effort must be made at the next session. The movie theatre success certainly shows it can be done if resourcefulness and tact — and mostly constant pressure — are used.
Just what is this area . . . this Piedmont Industrial Crescent? Defined by the Ford Foundation, it is a vast "area laboratory," stretching across North Carolina's fertile Industrial Piedmont. It is more, too. It is a bustling, urban complex engaged in unsurpassed growth patterns of manufacturing, distribution and marketing. Strategically centered at the hub of this massive urban market is WFMY-TV, the most powerful selling influence, by far.

North Carolina's INTERURBIA*

At the very axis of the CRESCENT lies INTERURBIA . . . the largest metropolitan market in the two Carolinas. INTERURBIA plus the Piedmont CRESCENT where more than two million people are sold by WFMY-TV.
