Florida's Northern Giant...
One of America's great test markets.

Jacksonville: the mammoth market!

Jacksonville is the giant . . . the largest city in land area in the continental United States, the regional home of giants of finance, business and industry. The Southeastern home of Prudential. A manufacturing center for Anheuser Busch and Maxwell House. It's the home office of Gulf Life Insurance and the home of Winn-Dixie. It's the Florida and Georgia distribution center for Colonial Stores, A&P, Food Fair-Pantry Pride; the headquarters for Sav-a-Stop, the nation's largest rack jobber, for St. Regis Paper, Seaboard Coastline and Ryder Trucking; the nerve center for air, truck, shipping and rail traffic that covers not only the Southeast but much of the nation.

Not only commercial but also military activity is focused here. Jacksonville Naval Air Station, Mayport carrier base and other installations nearby employ over 34,000 people and generate a payroll of $302,100,000.

Travelers flock to Jacksonville and its environs . . . to tour St. Augustine, to study at the University of Florida in Gainesville, and for the numerous business interests in the area.

With all this activity, Jacksonville is the perfect all-year-round test market. Our population, industry and employment patterns reflect the socio-economic characteristics of the nation. Jacksonville offers you 536,200 steady spenders (monthly sales tax collections vary less than 2% in all months except December) with a per capita income that ranks near the national average, and an effective buying income of over $1,640,169,000. Because Jacksonville is 124 miles or more away from the nearest metropolitan areas — Savannah, Orlando and Tallahassee — far from their media influences, you have a captive audience. And in this delightful year-round climate you can reach your audience with readily available television, radio, newspaper, billboard and transit advertising.

Why not join companies like Alberto-Culver, Bristol-Myers, Coca-Cola, Colgate, General Foods, Shell Oil and Standard Brands and test your new products in Jacksonville?
