OKLAHOMA TV-KOMA MERGER GIVES STATE'S CAPITAL ITS SECOND VHF

Among four FCC grants last week was that of vhf Ch. 9 at Oklahoma City to Oklahoma Television Corp. after that firm's merger with competing KOMA there. Its proposed 1,500-ft. antenna will be the world's tallest man-made structure, the grantee claims. Other grants are made at Jackson, Miss.; Champaign, Ill., and Kearney, Neb.

OKLAHOMA CITY was assured its second vhf television station with FCC approval last week of the application by Oklahoma Television Corp. for vhf Ch. 9 after its merger with competitive applicant KOMA there. KOMA disclaimed its Ch. 9 bid and acquires 50% interest in the grantee.

The action came under FCC's revised expediting procedure whereby the Commission acts upon survivor applicants at the next meeting following the withdrawal of competing bids. KOMA withdrew Tuesday as Oklahoma TV amended to show a half interest would be given KOMA Inc. and that the original Oklahoma TV principals would reduce their holding one-half. The amended bid was approved Wednesday and reported Thursday.

To use maximum effective radiated power of 316 kw visual and 156 kw auroral, the station plans a 1,500-ft. antenna, described as the "tallest man-made structure in the world." The call KTGW has been requested, indicating "World's Tallest Video." Construction of the tower and "other technical facilities will cost $1.7 million with total investment, including land and studios, reaching $2.2 million, the application discloses. The station will be RCA-equipped throughout, it was reported.

Under the merger, Oklahoma Television officers include Board Chairman John T. Griffin, head of the Griffin grocery and radio interests in Oklahoma and Arkansas, including KOMA; President Roy J. Turner, oil man and Oklahoma ex-governor, and Executive Vice President and General Manager Edgar T. Bell, former general manager of Oklahoma Pub. Co., owner of WKY-AM-TV Oklahoma City.

WKY-TV has been operating on vhf Ch. 4 since mid-1949. Earlier this year, FCC authorized two new vhf outlets, on Ch. 19 to KMPT (TV) owned by KLPR there, and the other on Ch. 25 to KTVQ (TV) under common ownership with KWCO Chickasha, Okla. Both vhf permits were granted September 1953.

The only other channel assigned to Oklahoma City is vhf Ch. 13, reserved for non-commercial educational use and now in competition between the State Regents and the city's Independent School District.

In other TV actions last week, FCC also approved construction permits for new TV stations at Jackson, Miss., to WSLS for vhf Ch. 12; at Champaign, Ill., to Champaign-Urbana TV Inc. for vhf Ch. 21, and at Kearney, Neb., to Bi-States Co. for vhf Ch. 13.

The Ch. 12 grant to Standard Life Insurance Co.'s WSLS Jackson was made possible by the last-minute withdrawal of a competitive application by WKBC Jackson.

Similarly, the Ch. 13 grant to Bi-States Co. at Kearney was facilitated by the Tuesday withdrawal of KGFW's competing application there. Bi-States is controlled by F. Wayne Brown and the Brewer Hospital and includes local businessmen.

Champaign-Urbana TV Inc. was unopposed in its quest for Ch. 21 at Champaign. The firm includes Vice President Dallas W. Smythe (4%), professor of economics at the U. of Illinois and former FCC economist; President Norman E. Blankman (39%) and Secretary Duncan M. Findlay (17%), both New York realtors, and Vice President Alan Blankman (17%), Baltimore realtor.
